

Colder Weather Due in Northern Areas, Forecast

Crews Still Busy Digging Way Out of High Snowdrifts

By the Associated Press
Colder weather, to be followed by snow in the north and west, was in store for citizens of northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan as they worked feverishly Thursday to dig out from under the winter's heaviest snow.

The Milwaukee weather bureau forecast colder weather in the northeast and north-central sections of Wisconsin Thursday night. Temperatures probably will rise Friday.

Shovelers and motor plow operators dug at drifts in sub-zero weather in the far north Thursday. Low temperatures early in the day ranged from -18 at Superior-Duluth, -12 at Sault Ste. Marie, -8 at Park Falls, -4 at Wausau, and -2 at La Crosse and Madison, to 6 above at Marquette, Mich., and 4 above in Milwaukee.

Bad Road Conditions

Upper Michigan roads remained closed shortly before Thursday noon, the Milwaukee Motor club reported. Most of Wisconsin's main state and federal highways were open, but virtually all were in bad condition. Club officials advised against motor travel in the north unless in emergency.

Highway 141 remained closed north of Sheboygan. No. 57 was open from Milwaukee to Green Bay, but was closed only for one-way traffic in some places. No. 55 was closed north of Kaukauna.

In the flood region, Highway 15 was open from Milwaukee to Beloit and Rockford, but was extremely icy and rough.

"Stay off county trunks and side-roads up north—highway crews have had all they could do to clear the main highways," was the motor club's advice.

Officials of the Chicago and North Western railroad said traffic was returning to normal on the Lake Shore division, snowbound north of Sheboygan Wednesday. The Ashland division was open between Milwaukee and Antigo. Plows were expected to clear rails to Ashland by late afternoon. The line north of Escanaba, Mich., remained blocked by drifts, some of them 20 feet deep.

4 Youths Safe

Rescue workers reported four Newberry, Mich., youths were safe at a farmhouse three miles north of Engadine.

They had been missing since 2 o'clock Tuesday morning when they were returning to their homes from a basketball game at St. Ignace.

Pupils Marooned

At Alpha, Mich., a half dozen schoolgirls, from 6 to 12 years old, were quarantined at the Porter grade school under the supervision of their teachers.

Drifts blocked their return by bus Monday to their homes and it was expected roads would not be opened in that territory before Friday or Saturday.

Forty-two persons, including 33 boys and 7 girls, remained snowbound in a school near Ironwood. They had plenty food.

Schools throughout the northern Michigan territory were closed.

Many upper Michigan miners and mine maintenance crews were marooned at their work but all were reported to have food.

Two were known dead and a third death was unconfirmed as the result of the blizzard which began early this week to sweep over the upper Michigan peninsula and across the north and east portions of Wisconsin.

Chilling winds extended today a cold wave which blocked highways of upper Michigan with snow and spread sub-normal temperatures as far south as central Florida.

9 Deaths Reported

Nine deaths were attributed to winter storms and floods.

A shift in the wind relieved the pressure of an ice jam against "honey-moon bridge" at Niagara falls and saved the 1,200-foot steel span from immediate destruction.

Michigan highway crews cut through snowdrifts ranging up to a depth of 30 feet in the northern part of the state. Workers rescued hundreds of motorists. Mine operations ceased and some schools were closed.

Temperatures dropped below the zero mark at many points in the midwest yesterday. Bernice, Minn., was 29 below.

Fair, cold weather and recession of headwaters localized winter floods of Arkansas.

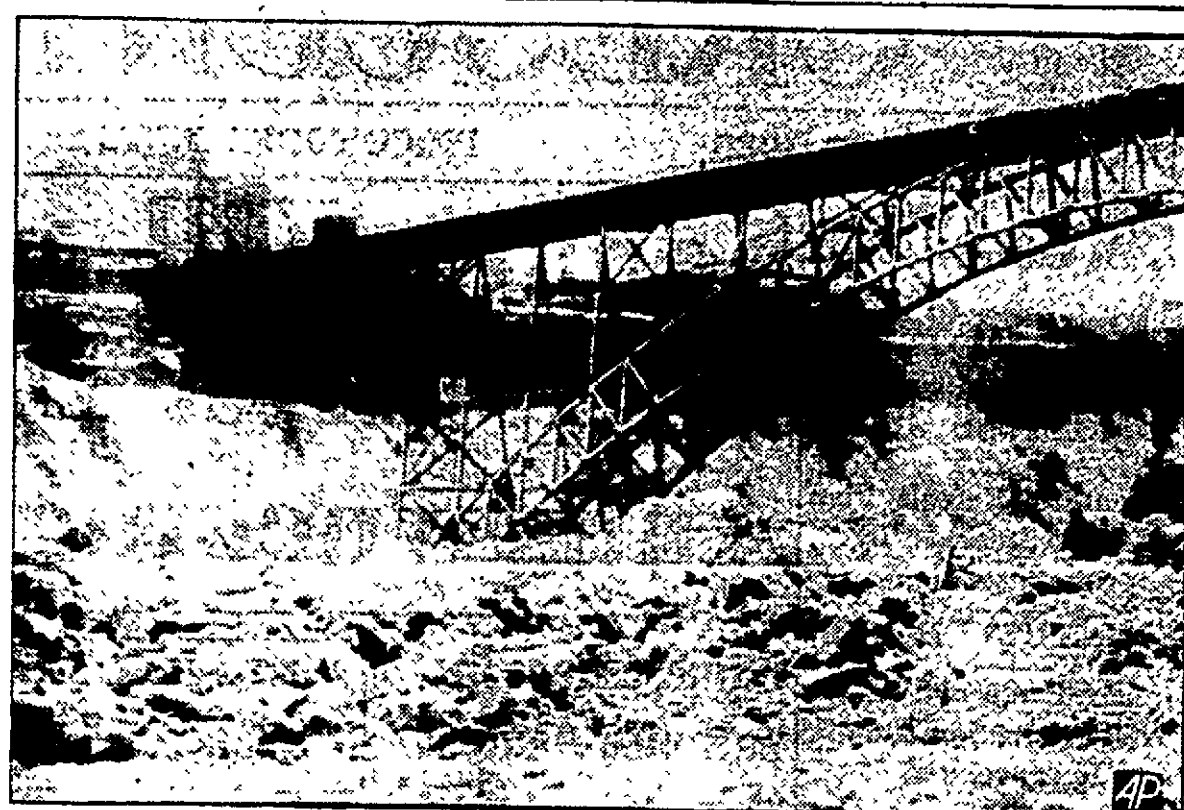

Power and telephone lines were waded out by flooded Rock river in Whiteside county, Illinois. Cold weather was expected to relieve flood conditions on two rivers in Maine.

Storms buffeted shipping on the Great Lakes and at sea.

Two fishing tugs, the Bonnie and Edna, were crushed by ice in Charlevoix harbor.

Her propeller damaged, the British freighter Pencarrow was taken in two late yesterday by the tug Foundation Franklin of Halifax, N. S., in heavy seas about 60 miles off the Nova Scotia coast.

Flurries of snow were reported in Ocala and Brooksville, Fla., about a third of the way down on the peninsula.

ICE THREATENS HONEYMOONER'S BRIDGE AT FALLS
Niagara's famous "Falls View Bridge," high flung steel structure known to millions of honeymooners, wavered dangerously under the onslaught of the biggest ice jam in 30 years. This photo shows the bridge with the pier at the Canadian end surrounded by ice.

Emotional Shock Caused Slayings, Wright Defense

Chief of Counsel Outlines Fight to Save De- fendant's Life

Los Angeles.—(P)—Dolorous, grim-visaged Paul A. Wright, on trial for his life, seemed somewhat heartened today as his counsel set out to prove that an emotional and mental shock caused the airport executive to kill his wife, Evelyn, and his friend, John Kimmel.

Five days of technical testimony, introduction of physical evidence and the prosecution's demand for the supreme penalty left the immaculately-dressed Wright haggard, his face set.

Jerry Giesler, chief of Wright's counsel, then outlined the fight he would make to save his client's life. Wright became more animated as Giesler told the jury he would show the defendant was always a kind and loving husband and father; that there was no motive for premeditated murder; that Wright and Kimmel, the man he made his operations manager at Union Air terminal, were the best of friends.

Giesler said Wright would testify in detail to a "horrible and terrible situation" in which he found Kimmel and Mrs. Wright in the Wright home early Nov. 9, day of the killings. The result of that situation, Giesler said, caused Wright to become unconscious as though he had been hit on the head with a mallet.

Assault Statement

"He did not have the slightest idea of what he did," the attorney shouted. "The next thing this defendant remembered was when he was standing there over the bodies with the pistol in his hand."

As to the statement Wright made several hours later to Glendale police, Giesler said he was trying to piece together the fragments of a dream. He said the nature of the facts Wright gave to the police as compared with the physical facts were absurd. Vagueness of Wright's statement, said Giesler, was caused by his desire "to keep the record clear for the sake of Mrs. Wright and their little daughter, Helen."

Giesler traced through Wright's earlier life to provide a background for what he said was, without question, emotional instability. He said Wright's world war service brought him pulmonary tuberculosis and heart trouble. In 1934, he said, Wright, "out of the great love for his wife," submitted to a sterilization operation rather than further jeopardize her life.

"If that operation," Giesler told the jury, "Wright forfeited his God-given right to fatherhood. The resulting emotional condition and monetary worries caused him to become morose and unstable."

Snow Storm Emergency Past in Michigan Zone

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—The Michigan Highway department said today the emergency caused by a snow storm that blocked upper peninsula highways was "definitely past."

The department said its snow platters had opened 1,500 miles of highway yesterday and last night and that not more than 100 miles of trunk line remained choked.

Power and telephone lines were waded out by flooded Rock river in Whiteside county, Illinois. Cold weather was expected to relieve flood conditions on two rivers in Maine.

Storms buffeted shipping on the Great Lakes and at sea.

Two fishing tugs, the Bonnie and Edna, were crushed by ice in Charlevoix harbor.

Republicans to Replace Democrats on Election Boards in City This Year

Reflecting Appleton's support of Republican and Progressive candidates in the gubernatorial election two years ago, the shift in election board personnel this year will leave the Democratic party in third place by a wide margin.

Two years ago Democrats had 63 representatives out of 112 on election board in the city, but with this year's selection based on the gubernatorial vote, will have only 13.

Republicans will replace Democrats in the First ward, Second ward, Fifth ward and Sixth ward. Democrats will retain the lead in the Third ward and Progressives will lead in the Fourth ward.

After leading all wards two years ago, Democrats will be completely eliminated from all wards but the Third and Fourth. Republicans came from 15 representatives two years ago to 49 this year while Progressives increased their representation from 34 to 50.

Mayor Will Appoint

Mayor Goodland will appoint members of election boards for Appleton's sixteen precincts at a meeting of the common council Wednesday evening. Three inspectors, two ballot clerks and two clerks of election will be appointed for each precinct. The party having the largest vote in the precinct is entitled to two inspectors, one ballot clerk and one clerk of election on the board while the party which cast the second largest vote will get one inspector, one ballot clerk and one clerk of election.

In the First ward, Republicans will have 12 representatives as compared to 9 two years ago. Progressives will have 9 members on the board compared to none two years ago and Democrats will have none compared to 12 at the last appointment.

"Second ward will have eight Republicans replacing eight Democrats and the Progressives will have six representatives compared to none two years ago.

Two years ago Democrats had 12 and Progressives had 9 representatives in the Third ward. This year Democrats will have seven representatives, Progressives will have eight and Republicans will have six.

Progressives will lead in the Fourth ward with eight representatives against six Democrats. Two years ago there were seven Democrats and seven Progressives on the board. The Republican party will not be represented.

In the Fifth ward, 11 Republicans will be appointed to replace Democrats and the Progressives will have 10 members on the board, a gain of one. Democrats will be eliminated from the Sixth ward election boards and will be replaced by Republicans. Progressives will have the same representation as two years ago, nine members.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press
Cleveland.—Here's a case where John Kercher, a taxicab driver knew his onions.

Pressed for his method of identifying a man accused of assault with intent to rob, Kercher explained: "He had onions on his breath when he held me up, and I smelled 'em when he was arrested 10 minutes later."

The defendant, Alex F. Archaki, 29, pleaded guilty.

Man Overboard

Pittsburgh.—Police Superintendent Franklin T. McQuaide is willing to go half-way to help would-be suicides who decide they've made a mistake.

He proposes placing balsa wood floats, with long ropes attached, on bridges spanning Pittsburgh's three rivers. The idea is that pedestrians could toss the rafts overboard, and the struggling swimmer below could be hauled to safety.

Of course, if the jumper doesn't change his mind, the plan won't work.

Historic Hotel Will be Used as Packing Plant

Prairie du Chien, Wis.—(P)—"Work" will begin about Feb. 1 in the reconstruction of the historic Dousman riverfront hotel into a packing plant, William D. Carroll, former state senator, said today. Carroll said he and associates would spend about $50,000 in creating the plant which will include three other new buildings.

Operations will start about May 1, with work for 35 men, Carroll said. Plans provide for a capacity of about 100,000 hogs and 20,000 cattle per year.

G. O. P. Executive Committee Backs Fusion Movement

County Group Unanimously Endorses Anti-La- Follette Campaign

Added impetus to the coalition movement in the state was given in Outagamie county today with the announcement that the executive committee of the Outagamie County Republican committee has unanimously endorsed the movement.

The announcement was made by Elmer Honkmap, chairman of the county committee who was named the coalition chairman of the Eighth congressional district at a meeting of the coalitionists at Stevens Point last Saturday.

In line with the program that will be carried on throughout the state within the next month, Honkmap will name a temporary chairman in each county in the district.

All citizens and interested parties will be invited to attend the county meetings which will be called by the temporary county coalitionist chairmen. Permanent officers will be named at that first meeting.

Mark Catlin, Jr., a member of the state coalitionist committee of 70, has been named temporary chairman for Outagamie county and a meeting will be called of persons interested in the fusion movement in the near future.

The state organization will provide speakers for the various county meetings, some of whom will be candidates for the state office on the coalition ticket. Cards will be distributed at the county meetings this spring, on which each Progressive voter will be asked to name his choice for each of the five state offices: governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer and attorney general.

Activities of the fusion group will be limited to these five state offices, Honkmap said.

Japanese Restrict Code Messages in Shanghai Offices

Shanghai.—(P)—The Japanese army announced today that after this month's census it has stationed in all Shanghai cable and radio offices will pass messages in code only if the senders are certified by their consuls as "reputable."

Senders also will be required to produce their codes to permit censors to read the messages. An army spokesman said that should any person or firm "show bad faith" in this matter no messages from such senders either in code or plain language would be accepted thereafter.

Chinese were forbidden to use code.

American and other foreign business men expressed indignation over the announcement. Japanese censorship of press messages has been in force for some time.

Labor Meeting Report Made to Union Body

A report on the public labor meeting which will be held at Memorial chapel Friday night, Feb. 11, was made at a meeting of the Appleton Trades and Labor council last night. Routine business matters were discussed at the meeting.

Albert Rehfeldt, Appleton, is chairman for the public meeting next month, sponsored by the Appleton and Neenah-Menasha trades and labor councils to acquaint union members with new labor laws and organizing methods and to study general economic conditions as related to laboring men.

John P. Burke, New York, president of the Pulp and Sulphite International, will be the principal speaker.

Condemned Pair Again Facing Electrocutation

Chester, Ill.—(P)—Two stolid condemned slayers, Angelo Ralph Gancola and Mrs. Marie Porter, awaited hopelessly today the end of a week's reprieve, and the last 17 steps to the electric chair shortly after midnight tonight.

Mrs. Porter indicated she had given up her former belief Governor Henry Horner would prevent her from being the first woman executed in Illinois.

She was sentenced to death for the murder of her brother, William Kappen, on his wedding day last July near Belleville, Ill. All principals of the case were residents of St. Louis, Mo.

Gianelli, 22-year-old triggerman who admitted he shot Kappen to death at her instigation, stared morosely at his cell bars. He said last farewells yesterday to his family, excepting his brother, John Joseph, who is serving 99 years for the same crime.

Municipal League Warns Of "Shanty Town" Evils

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison.—In a bulletin to all members this week, the League of Wisconsin Municipalities warned city authorities that slum conditions and their accompanying municipal housing problems are not confined to the large metropolitan cities, but exist in most of the smaller Wisconsin cities.

"Shanty-towns" in and near many Wisconsin cities constitute a problem which must be met, the League advised its member city officials, calling attention to the danger that vast areas of Wisconsin's urban districts are being seriously and perhaps permanently blighted.

"A shanty-town district may be an even greater social and economic liability than the old tenement slums," said the city officials' organization in a new research study.

The study presents results of a survey of all the important urban sections of Wisconsin, and while avoiding specific mention of names of cities, it shows that many Wisconsin municipalities have serious housing shortages, and difficult housing problems.

"In a certain city in the Fox River or Valley," the report says, "there are some thirty or more boat houses and shacks along the river shore. Some of these are afloat; others are constructed partly on shore and partly on piles which formerly supported docks. A few of the houses, although close to the water's edge, are entirely above high water. Toilet facilities in most instances overhang the river, and the sewage goes directly into the river. Some of the shacks are equipped with hand pumps which draw water from the river for washing purposes. Drinking water is 'borrowed' chiefly from nearby homes and business places."

In a 30 page report, the League summarizes the serious social and economic consequences of such blighted slum areas, the cost to the taxpayer, the hazards to health, and the other ramifications of the problem.

The report suggests that city officials consider seriously the possibility of municipal housing projects to remove some of the dangers in the present growth of "shanty-town" sections. "It is imperative that further study be given to the numerous and perplexing problems which cause and which are the results of the makeshift house, and that such study culminate in action," the report concludes.

Superior Man Killed in 25-Foot Fall Off Bridge

Duluth, Minn.—(P)—Slipping through open flooring in the interstate bridge, Harvey G. Chamberlain, 71, of Superior, was instantly killed yesterday when he plunged 25 feet to solid ice in the channel below.

Witnesses said Chamberlain, a retired employee of the Soo Line railroad, was gathering wood from the bridge where flooring is being removed for repairing when he apparently slipped through an opening in timbers supporting the roadway.

The WORLD of STAMPS

BY JAMES B. HATCHER

One of the great rarities of philately, a Swedish error, changed hands in a London auction room recently for about $25,000. It is the 3 skilling-banco of 1855, printed in yellow instead of green. Only one is known.

In 1885 a schoolboy was sorting a lot of old Swedish stamps his grandmother had given him when he found this odd one. They say he sold it for $2.

Later a Vienna dealer sold it on commission to the famous Ferrari for $1,500. When France broke up and auctioned Ferrari's superlative collection in 1922, the 3 skilling-banco yellow was knocked down to Baron Leijonhufvud for $3,500. Four years later it was resold for $6,000, and in 1928 Dr. Ramberg, a Swedish collector, bought it for $10,000.

The new owner is a European collector whom the Bond St. auctioneers decline to name.

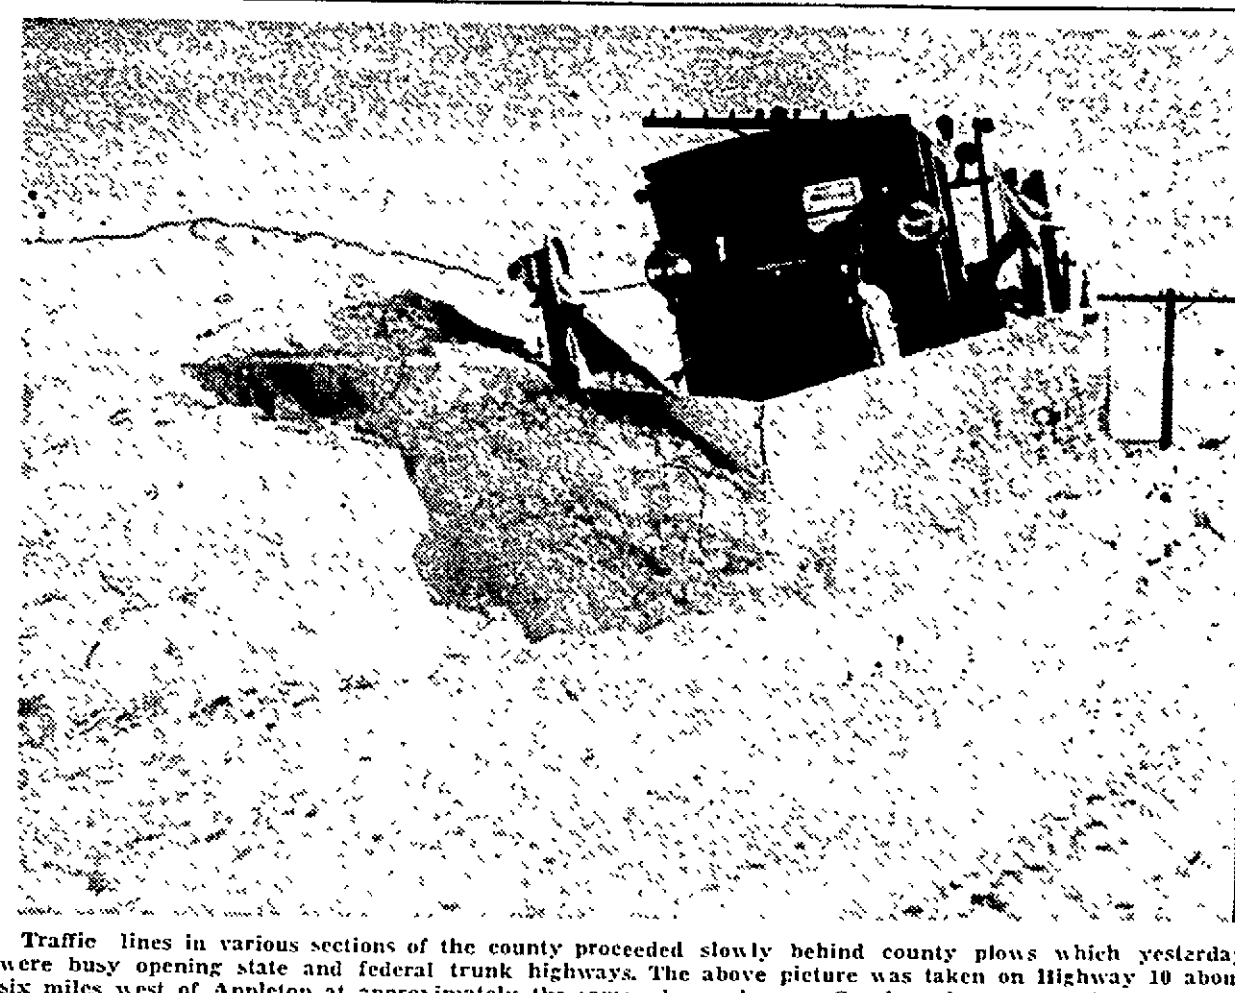

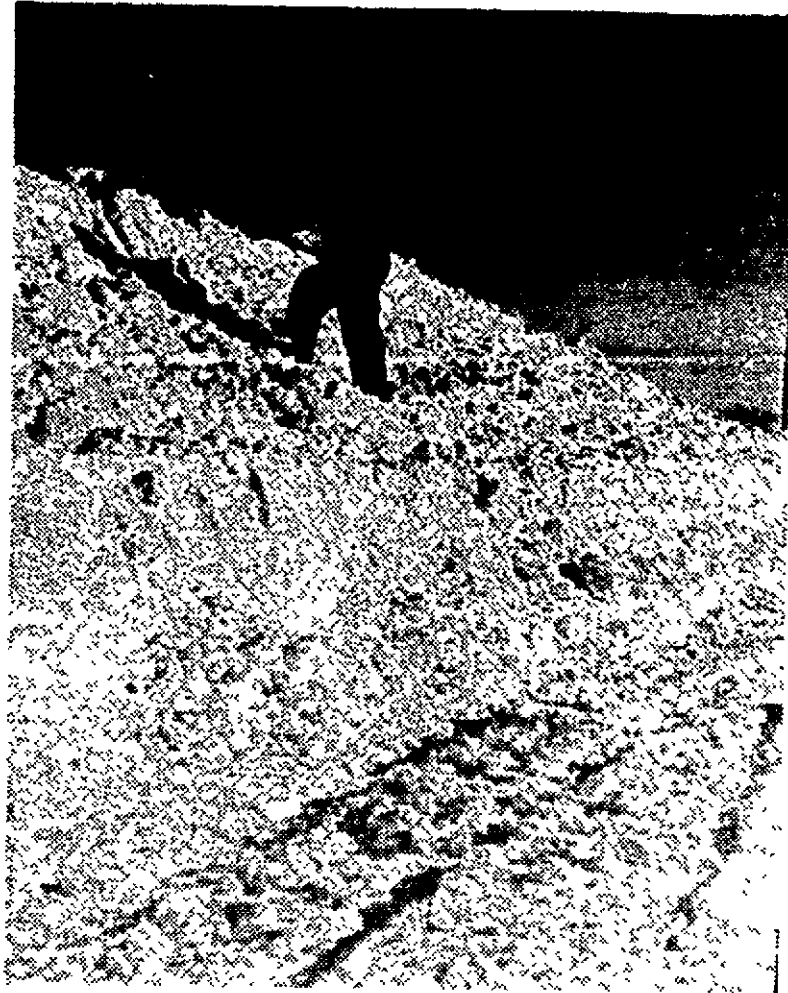

Experts believe the error happened when the printers put a cliché of the 3 skilling-banco in a plate of the 8 skilling-banco, for the shade is the same. Possibly the slip occurred towards the end of the 1857 printing and only a few sheets with the error went to press.

The price, $25,000, is the second highest ever paid for a single stamp. The late Arthur Hind of Utica paid about $36,700 for the 1856 one-cent magenta British Guiana at the Ferrari sale, and this is still tops, though his widow is said to have turned down a $40,000 offer. The Post Office, Mauritius which sold for around $20,000 used to be the second highest priced stamp.

Honoring Swedenborg
Sweden's next postal issue will be a two-stamp set commemorating the 250th anniversary of the birth of Emanuel Swedenborg, scientist, philosopher and founder of Swedenborgian theology.

There will be a 10 - ore and 1-krona, both in coils, no watermark. The 10-ore will be issued also in booklets (perf. 13). The Swedish postoffice

Snow Banks Reach Height of 15 Feet Along Highway 10 West of City

Traffic lines in various sections of the county proceeded slowly behind county plows which yesterday were busy opening state and federal trunk highways. The above picture was taken on Highway 10 about six miles west of Appleton at approximately the same place where a Grayhound passenger bus was marooned on Monday. Milton Luckie, 726 W. Commercial street, obligingly shows the depth of the snow piled up on the side of Highway 10 four miles west of Appleton in the picture at the left. The piles of snow in some places reach the height of 12 to 15 feet. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Barn Burns Down At Reformatory

Inmates Save 80 Head of Cattle: Loss Exceeds $35,000

Green Bay—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a dairy barn at the Wisconsin State Reformatory farm near here late yesterday, causing damage estimated between $35,000 and $50,000.

Reformatory inmates led to safety a herd of 80 Holstein cattle, a number of which were national prize winners.

The blaze, believed to have originated in the haymow of the two-story brick and frame barn, was discovered by inmates. By the time fire fighting apparatus from Green Bay arrived to augment the reformatory squad, the building was blazing fiercely.

The loss included several thousand bushels of grain and hay.

Reedsville's New Water Plant Will Cost $40,000

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The fact that the village of Reedsville has 100 private wells which may easily become contaminated was a factor in its authorization to the village to establish a waterworks, the public service commission said this week.

In May 1937 the village voted 225 to 88 for a water and sewer system. The water system will cost slightly more than $40,000, with the federal PWA granting $18,000, with $15,000 raised by mortgage bonds secured by the water utility income and property, and $7,500 in village bonds.

Tenure Teacher Can't Be Fired for Marrying

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Local school boards and superintendents were advised today in an opinion by Attorney General Orland S. Loomis that marriage is not a cause for discharge under the teachers tenure law enacted by the 1937 state legislature.

In reply to an inquiry by State Superintendent John Callahan, Loomis added that the resignation of a married teacher can not be forced by the subterfuge of an unreasonable salary reduction effected solely to achieve that end.

"Indirect methods of disturbing tenure should be frowned upon where the facts indicate bad faith," Loomis wrote.

"The courts have consistently held that a tenure teacher cannot be discharged because of marriage," he pointed out to Callahan.

Go slowly, save lives

Tobacco Experts Smoke Luckies 2 to 1

Lee Moore — who judged 1½ million lbs. of tobacco in 3 weeks—explains why so many independent experts "go for" Luckies

"MY LIFE has been tobacco," says Mr. Moore. "I started as a tobacco farmer. Then, in 1909, I became an independent buyer—in 1920 a warehouseman—and since 1927 I've had my own tobacco warehouse in Georgia.

"It's a matter of dollars and cents to me to be able to judge tobacco quickly and accurately. Now I know exactly what kind of tobacco Lucky Strike buys. So I've smoked Luckies for 11 years."

This is the honest opinion of an impartial expert who sells tobacco to all cigarette manufacturers, but who is not connected with any. And there are many other such experts who agree with Mr. Moore.

Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts—not connected with any cigarette manufacturer—Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

Up to Voters to Remove Shackles Binding Business

Unemployed Will Have Chance to Use Political Power at Polls in Fall

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Political government is in a serious fix these days. Millions of men are out of work through no fault of their own. Values are dropping, business executives are fearful and the president of the United States offers no solution, but continues by implication to blame business men.

From the right wing—the conservatives—comes the blast that the administration is weakening confidence at a very time when it ought to be strengthening confidence. When the president uses the phrase, "Those who believe in the profit system must recognize, etc.," there are readers in the business world who think he himself has lost confidence in the profit system and has moved over to the socialistic school of "production for use." Had the president said, "those of us who believe in the profit system must recognize, etc.," maybe the stock market on Wednesday would not have had its worst drop in many days.

From the left wing—the radicals—comes another kind of blast against Mr. Roosevelt. It is reminiscent of Hoover days. The argument is advanced that Mr. Roosevelt is "doing nothing," and that he should "do something." John L. Lewis taunts the administration with the cry that it should be prepared to spend billions of dollars more right away.

Expresses Problem

In the face of these conflicting forces, the sanest and perhaps the most thoughtful and penetrating utterance that has come in many a day is the address by Donald Richberg on Wednesday evening in New York. Unlike the outbursts from Messrs. Ickes and Jackson, the man who served as general counsel of the NRA expresses in persuasive terms the problem of transition faced by world democracies.

"The government of the United States cannot live apart," says Mr. Richberg. "Government and business, as we know them today, will either work together and live together or they will die together. Free enterprise and free government will survive, or, in the destruction of one, both will be destroyed."

"We need no wild alarmist, no fanatic prophet of disaster, to rouse us to an understanding that we live in a perilous era of transition. Nor is it helpful for anyone to try to persuade us that radical theories or radical parties are making over the world of yesterday."

"What we need is to look squarely at the fact that nation after nation is going through the terrifying birth pains of a new political economy. Some people want to hurry the process; some want to ease the suffering; some just want to complain about it; but no one can stop it."

Underserved Penalties

Mr. Richberg lays down a program for dealing with monopolistic and unfair practices which is a great improvement on the present system, that tells nobody the rules and then prosecutes criminally those who try to follow governmental advice. He suggests that an administrative body, presumably the federal trade commission, should be "empowered to pass on the prima facie legality of cooperative activities (through trade associations or special agreements) so that business organizations can undertake a great many programs absolutely necessary to protect and promote business and employment, without being subject to underserved prosecutions and penalties."

But the larger problem—how to encourage capital investment and create jobs—is one that is still vague in the public mind. Business men say, "Revise tax laws, prescribe the rules, stop competing with private industry, please quit stirring up class feeling and class antagonism in America."

Government—meaning the president, because congress is almost hopelessly unaware of its responsibilities—answers back. "Reduce costs and reduce prices, but don't reduce wages. Pay more for freight rates—because the railroads need it. Pay more for farm products, because the farmers need it, and the government will help pay the prices at a higher level than would be the case if the government subsidy were withdrawn. Pay more for taxes, but don't pass the costs on to the consumer. And, last, but not least, don't lay off men but keep on paying money out of surpluses"

This sort of contradictory advice only adds to the confusion of those who are trying to operate the profit system—though Mr. Roosevelt would have been more accurate if he had termed it the "profit and loss system." It is easy enough to tell business men who have the responsibility of meeting payrolls what to do, but it is something else to teach them how to do it without getting into receivership or bankruptcy. Everybody in government seemingly is giving advice to business, but nobody apparently wants to listen to the advice the business men offer. One reason is that the government, through the political-minded and the demagogues, has done its utmost for five years to discredit business. The left-wing idea has deliberately fostered the idea so that socialism may be introduced. The middle-of-the-roaders have done it because they thought it was the way to maintain political power.

Meanwhile, if wages are not cut so that work can be spread, millions more will have no jobs at all. Had Mr. Roosevelt urged that work be spread and pay cuts distributed so as to take care of many who would otherwise be deprived of their entire jobs, the reasoning would have been more acceptable to the business world, though to day, with contractual obligations to pay certain hourly rates of wages, the usual answer is to cut down the amount of work, introduce lay-offs for the unlucky workmen who have been the last to come on the payroll and who have suffered throughout the depression while others have had some form of employment. Maybe these unemployed will use their political power next autumn to put into office congressmen and senators who will remove the shackles from business and give the American economic system a chance to function once more.

Card Party Planned at Hilbert Church Hall

Hilbert—The Christian Mothers' society of St. Mary's Catholic church will give a card party Sunday evening in the church hall beginning at 7:30. Schafskopf, five hundred and skat will be played and prizes awarded. Lunch will follow the games. The officers of the society, are in charge of arrangements.

A son was born Tuesday afternoon to Mr. and Mrs. Elard Weber, at their home here.

There was no school Tuesday afternoon at the public school because of the raging snow storm. Snowplows worked all day piloting cars through the snow drifts.

Hotel accommodations were hardy sufficient for the motorists who were stranded here Monday evening by the snow storm.

Mrs. Matt Baer, Mrs. John Baer and Mrs. Peter Dix visited Mrs. Joseph McHugh, of Chilton Saturday at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac.

Melchoir Finishing Work On Highway Building Code

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The new code of fair competition for the highway construction industry in Wisconsin is nearly finished, according to Walter Melchoir, New London, counsel for the Wisconsin fair trade practices commission which is drafting the new law.

Melchoir conferred with officers of the contractors association in Milwaukee this week on cost schedules which will be written into the code's provisions.

colonies in the California mountains, recent surveys have shown. Leonard Swanson of this city estimates that about 50 condors live in two colonies in the Santa Barbara national forest. Two small

PAY THE BILLS, AND LIKE IT

Not so long ago the Post-Crescent suggested that congress provide by law that when it published the incomes of our supposedly happy people who make more than $15,000 per annum publication should be accompanied by a statement of the amount each person pays for income taxes.

We observe the New York Sun took the idea and published a full page of interesting names giving salaries, federal income taxes, state income taxes and the balance left the taxpayer after the governments had their pockets stuffed.

Thus we find that Mr. Sloan, head of General Motors, received a total salary of $561,000 but paid in federal and state income taxes $398,000, leaving him a balance of $163,000.

It looks to us as though these governments were the most interested parties in General Motors salaries. They received nearly $400,000 while Mr. Sloan only got $163,000.

Passing on to Gary Cooper who earned a total of $370,000 it is to be noted that when Washington and Sacramento got through with him he had but $127,000 left, not so much if one consider the plane of life upon which such a person must live, the scores of employees he hires and even the income tax lawyers he must pay.

Claudette Colbert who received $350,000 paid $228,000 in taxes and Mae West had left but $117,000 out of $323,000 with which to fight this cruel world.

If we keep on with Mr. Roosevelt's financial policy we will come to the time when General Motors will have to pay Mr. Sloan about 2 million dollars per annum in order to give that gentleman a salary of $150,000 net to him. But the people aren't very much interested because they only buy a car every few years.

When we get to giving Gary Cooper $2,000,000 per annum in order to let him have a little over $100,000 for himself it will be a bit more personal because most of us go to the movies pretty often and they will have to jack up their prices to square themselves with the prevailing financial policies of the national government.

CUTTING WAGES

A variety of arguments are used to sustain the prevailing wage level ranging from humanitarian to economic and including the one labeled Purchasing Power but excluding Ability to Pay.

We think the current wage level should be maintained even if it requires serious sacrifices, as it may.

And the reason is not highfaluting nor difficult to follow.

Our dollar today represents but 60 percent in gold compared to the dollar a few years ago. The price levels, and therefore the wage levels, have thus been artificially but lawfully raised. The income standard for everyone in the country from common laborer to a General Motors executive should be raised somewhat accordingly since our only possible chance of ever paying our enormous and growing debts is with a cheapened dollar.

However much the individual may have opposed this sort of alleged economics the scheme became the law of the land through an act of congress, approval by the President and a sustaining decision by the supreme court. That should end the argument with all of us.

Some companies, depleted of cash reserves by forced dividends under the whip of another law, may find it a straining effort to maintain wages in the face of reduced orders. But that very maintenance, however hard at times, may be sufficient to bridge over a recession and stop it from becoming a rout.

THE FIZZLE OF THE GEIGER CHARGES

The soprano tantrum against Judge Geiger started by the Attorney-General was translated into plain language by Mr. Jackson himself when he told the House Committee that the government acting through him was trying to blackmail certain auto finance companies and that Judge Geiger wouldn't stand for it.

This astounding declaration brought from Mr. Poss of Milwaukee who was present the admission that he was never more astounded than when he heard "from the lips of a government official that the government has a right to use a grand jury to coerce."

The proceedings dispelled all confusion that may have existed with the House Committee, leading its chairman to say, "This appears to be a different proposition than many members of the committee had thought," and another member to exclaim that "the Department of Justice seems to believe in the third degree."

For about as long as anyone has lived in Wisconsin we have had a law fixing prison punishment for blackmail which is broadly defined as the attempt to get someone to do what he doesn't have to do or doesn't want to do by the fear created by threats. One of the most constantly used threats in a case of this kind is to sue out a warrant and hold up imprisonment as the alternative to paying money or otherwise conceding rights.

The members of the Attorney-General's office still persist in making themselves holy and above the law. They are usually so lacking in either ability or experience that they can otherwise make no impression in the world.

There is no gainsaying the fact that in ordinary language Judge Geiger is a tough judge. He is entirely independent. Sob stories might as well be cashed at the door before entering. Well oiled excuses and alibis were better left unborn. But in his ruling in this particular case, now that the Attorney-General's office concedes its improper purposes, he was right by every rule of decent behavior.

UTILITIES ON THE SPOT

The tracing of $33,500 from utility officials to former Secretary Dinneen of the Public Service Commission suggests angles that should be cleared up.

Those questions are brought to mind by the recent arrest at Miami, Florida, of the mayor of that city charged by the Florida Power & Light Company with seeking from it a bribe of $150,000 to accomplish a certain ruling in regard to rates.

Hail the Florida company that went before the grand jury and exposed evidence of the attempt to get a bribe! We suppose it will be pilloried in its own community by the politicians who fell down in their effort but we rather think it will build up a very tangible and valuable public opinion in its favor.

It would be interesting to know in the Dinneen affair whether the "loans" and "gifts" with which utility officials seem to have harassed Mr. Dinneen were sought by him or offered without suggestion.

It is conceivable that a utility only seeking fair play may be put on a very hot spot by a man in Mr. Dinneen's position who merely suggests that he would like to borrow $3,000 but repeats the suggestion until the loan has grown to a considerable figure.

In almost every instance where the misuse of funds has been traced to utilities there have been claims or evidence that the money was requested with the alternative of a partisan attack upon the utility supposedly supported in the public mind by the natural inclination of the people to cheer anything said to the detriment of large institutions of capital.

The bribe giver and the bribe taker, the loan shaker and the loan maker, are not exactly on a par although the punishment fixed by law may be much the same. The public official, with an oath recorded to protect public rights, occupies a more reprehensible position in these cases and one that becomes increasingly so if it can be established that the sell-out of the public interest originated with him.

LAMENT

When first I came to Pumpkin Center
Main street was a road
The city park was just a swale
Where stag horn sumac grew.
And every thing was peaceful here
There wasn't any law
'Twas just about the nicest place
My young eyes ever saw!
There wasn't any school or church
We all was heathens then
Some how I got a penchant
To go back to then again.

There wasn't many neighbors then
Of course we had a few
And I could always get a shirt
If my neighbors had two.
But they had to start improving things
That God made pretty good
Ain't nothing but a fence post stands
Where once a pine tree stood.
And now the doggone auto horns
Whose honking is a fright
Sound nothing like the coons and owls
I used to hear at night.

And now there's gas smell in the air
That once was pure and clean
And grime has settled on the grass
That once was fresh and green.
An' if they get to crowding me
I'm going to emigrate
There still must be a some where else
With scenes that nature made.
An' I can't draw the picture right
With words I used so far
Describing things that used to be
Or as they were — and are.

If, by the time this hits your porch, the second blizzard threatened for us has arrived, you may expect to hear the last about the snow shovel. I will cut the handle up for a ski pole and make a sled for pulling groceries with the rest of it. Then I will open a ski rental agency for the benefit of those who would like to pass or get to my house.

A Verse for Today

By Ann Campbell

THE MOON OF LOVE

The moon is following
In the dark night,
Through all my journeying,
I see its light.
It spills its gold.
The air is colder now;
The night grows old.

Your love is following
When trouble comes,
With fearful trumpeting,
And dreadful drums.
I feel its warming glow
Melt my heart's cold.
And it will last, I know,
When I grow old!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Jan. 26, 1928

The Irving Zuelke Music company store and the Continental Clothing company store were in ruins Thursday morning following the most disastrous fire Appleton has experienced in more than a quarter of a century. The loss on the buildings and contents is estimated at from $235,000 to $255,000.

Fourteen streams of water were poured into the burning structure, owned by Mr. Zuelke, by fire departments of Appleton, Little Chute, Combined Locks and Menasha, and Hortonville and Oshkosh fire departments were held in reserve at the fire station here if their help was needed.

The building and contents are a total loss. Nothing was saved from the stores of offices in the building. Although flames did not burst out for nearly two hours after the fire was discovered, the smoke was so dense throughout the entire structure that no one could enter it. Heat was so intense that windows fronting nearby stores were cracked and it could be felt more than a block away.

The annual stockholders meeting and directors meeting of the Wichmann Furniture company was held Monday evening in the offices of the corporation. Officers elected are Mrs. Augusta Wichmann, president; Joseph Loessel, vice president; George E. Johnson, secretary and treasurer; Earl Wichmann, manager, and L. J. Smith, assistant manager.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Jan. 30, 1913

Contract for 504 seats in the new Elit theater was awarded yesterday by Neil Duffy, manager, to the Wisconsin Seating company of New London.

The anniversary celebration of Robert Burns, Scotch poet, was held at DePere Monday night with the following Appleton people attending: Mr. and Mrs. Leuchars, William and Andrew Ogilvie, Richard Watson and Miss Margaret Watson.

Richard Tuschner and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Murphy, Menasha, attended the joint installation of the Foresters and Ladies auxiliary here last night.

At the meeting of the Appleton Rug Works last night, two more directors were elected. The new directors are James A. Wood and Henry Reuter.

Miss Mary Mangold, Kaukauna, was in Appleton yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Shuldes, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Werner and Ed Cummings, all of Ellington, motored to Kaukauna recently.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CONDITION OF SKIN

If the truth were told it would fill six feet of books—that is, what we know about the effects of diet on the skin or complexion. What I have to say about it won't take long.

Exclusive milk diet for a few days at a time or for several weeks in some instances, has seemed to bring about prolonged relief or cure of chronic eczema or dermatitis, numerous readers have assured me.

Vegetarian diet or milk-vegetarian diet followed for weeks or months seems to clear up chronic psoriasis in many cases, but not invariably.

Young persons afflicted with the acne of youth (blackheads and pimples) often notice an aggravation of the trouble or a fresh breaking out after they have indulged in too much candy or sweets in any form. On the other hand, many young persons with acne have experienced considerable benefit from an increased intake of carbohydrates, candy, sugar, ice cream, cake, etc.

Unless it is that acne is an allergic reaction to chocolate, sugar or other carbohydrate item in some instances I have no idea why this is so.

In the treatment of chronic eczema (dermatitis) in children Schiff of the University of Berlin (Archives of Pediatrics Jan. 1935) prescribes for children three years of age or over an exclusively raw fruit and vegetable diet for ten days to two weeks, no longer, and fruit juices not over 7 ounces daily as the only fluid. Later he allows cooked vegetables prepared with oil or salt-free butter, meat and bread, and finally about 3 ounces of milk diet with malt coffee and the yolk of one egg daily. All food must be unsalted and only salt-free "sweet" butter used.

With this diet he suggests the use of nalfalan-zinc ointment on the skin lesions. Nalfalan is a mild form of tar, and for infant or child standard Zinc ointment to which 5 per cent of nalfalan is added, may be used. Schiff advises that the diet should be continued for several months after the eczema or dermatitis has entirely disappeared.

Now if I may take up the harp and twang it once more, vitamin C is called the anti-dermatitis vitamin, probably because insufficient vitamin C in the food is the cause of pellagra and obstinate dermatitis resembling old sunburn is a characteristic feature of pellagra. Good sources of vitamin C are liver, kidney, yeast, wheat germ of plain wheat, malted milk, dried peas, greens and fresh vegetables, especially vegetables or greens eaten raw or only slightly cooked, and the yolk of egg.

There is no scientific ground for the notion that fats, oils, greasy or fried foods, butter, cream or milk make the skin too oily or greasy or harm the complexion. On the contrary, restriction of the intake of such foods tends to make the skin sallow and lifeless.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Is swimming harmful to a ruptured appendix? (M. A.)
Answer—Assuming you mean you recently had an operation, no, swimming is rather beneficial, unless there is some complication which makes exercise unwise. Generally people remain inactive too long following operations.

Pink Eye
Acute catarrhal conjunctivitis is what the doctor called a kind of epidemic of eye inflammation in our neighborhood, and two members of our family got remarkably prompt relief and cure from a quinine ointment? (C. W.)

Answer—Yes, 2 per cent ointment of quinine bisulphate has been found a satisfactory and harmless remedy in "pink eye" as well as in dinary acute conjunctivitis. A little is applied to the edges of the lids with the little finger three or four times a day, and a little inside the lower lid.

Your Birthday

"AQUARIUS"

If January 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a. m., to 12:45 p. m.; from 3:45 to 5:45 p. m. and from 8:45 to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:45 to 10:45 a. m., from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m. and from 10:45 p. m., until midnight.

Claims of any kind, unless backed by documentary evidence, are apt to be very difficult to prove this day. Do not judge a person's actions too hastily, because they might be justified by circumstances that are likely to be revealed later on. Those who allow disappointment to cause them to sulk or appear discourteous will find many difficulties confronting them. Make up your mind to take things as they come. Be very careful where you put valuables or documents, for absentmindedness or carelessness in handling them may lead to serious complications. It will be a good policy to keep unassailable thoughts to yourself, and will prevent your getting into trouble. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who have been listening to "the sweetest story ever told," will do well to let requests they make be tempered with consideration, and the thought of what affect it will have on the pocketbook of the person asked to grant them.

If a woman and January 28 is your birthday you probably have been favored by the three Graces—Aglaia (Brilliance), Euphrosyne (Joy), and Thalia (Bloom). Your generous kind-heartedness should win for you a vast amount of popularity. In books you can find mental relaxation and more thoroughly enjoyable diversion than in any other way, so if you are not already an omnivorous bookworm, try being one. Your hopes require your laying a firm foundation for the future by good planning, there will be no danger of their vanishing. As a writer of prose or verse, dramatic critic, artist or office executive your chances of being successful are unlimited. You probably will display exceptionally good judgment in your selection of a husband.

The child born on January 28 must be taught not to have pronounced likes and dislikes, especially in regard to food. Its future will be greatly influenced by this youngster's early training.

If a man and January 28 is your natal day, if you make good use of your social and business advantages, you are likely to reach the top of the ladder. Through manufacturing, the stage, art, education, or as a soldier your ability ought to win worthwhile recognition.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER
New York—Sometimes there's a big heartbreak in the way people inadvertently work at NOT being a success.

Take the case of Dorothy Fox, that blossom lady of the dance, whose satiric solos cause the bleary-eyed to pause in muddling their old-fashioned, while the intelligent and unincubated murmur little "oh's" and "ah's" of admiration.

Not so many years ago, Dorothy was a St. Louis debutante who went off to Paris to acquire a higher musical education. There's no heartbreak in that, of course, and there wasn't any when she decided to sidetrack her ambition to compose modern rondolets for swirling on the hardwood.

She worked hard, came to New York and teamed with a charming young fellow named Charles "Chuck" Walters. Chuck's ability, it was more than considerable and it wasn't long before the couple had an imposing array of favorable notices. It looked like top flight for a new dance team.

Then came one of those backstage twists that the movie critics call "old stuff." Walters got an offer of a fat contract in a Broadway show to dance with one of the cast stars. Dorothy Fox graciously bowed out.

Dorothy could write a volume about her next year. Capable male dancing partners are as scarce as stage-door Johnnies at the ally entrance of a neighborhood movie. But through it all, an old habit of Dorothy's had been getting strong and stronger. As some people go to movies, read books, collect stamps or take to drink for relaxation and relief from worries, Dorothy Fox took busman's holidays: she danced!

It wasn't, however, like any dancing you ever saw. Dorothy just put a record on her phonograph, kicked her furniture back in the corners and let the mood take care of itself. Sometimes, she pretended she was a chorus girl going through a day's routine of job-hunting; sometimes that she was on a world cruise and satirizing the peoples of every country she visited — anything that suited her mood.

The payoff came when she got an unexpected call for a solo audition one day, decided to take a try at it, and having no routine ready, swayed and glided and whirled through an extemporaneous dance — and got the job!

Two weeks later, an alert scout for John Roy, the Rainbow room's genial impresario, caught her act in a Brooklyn theater and the rest is "written in the night club records . . . and the figures on Dorothy Fox's pay check."

The chili man is at large again these blustery, sleazy nights. He has a wobbly-wheeled wagon and he sells bowls of hot chili with mugs of scalding, blistering broth which can be described only as a cross between red pepper, wine and tabasco sauce. And how warming!

Feed Monkeys Peanuts, Southern Farmers Urge

Enfield, N. C. — (4) — Monkeys, elephants and small boys can do something for the farm folk of this section. They can eat more peanuts.

Turning from cotton and tobacco to a new "cash" crop, eastern North Carolina farmers built up a gigantic peanut industry. Up, up went the "ground pea" production until it mounted this year to 243,000,000 pounds.

And down, down went the price

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington — This is reception season at the White House; and if you never make one, you can always solace your grandchildren with the assurance that it is far less fun than fishing.

The president always seems to be doing a chore—and by the time we reach him he's finally tired. The guests often enough are bored but apparently they never would miss a single reception. The same faces are seen there year after year. . . .

Even the most blasé goers—here—and there can't escape a gentle burble of delight when they are included on the President's calling list for a night. The invitations bear a gilt eagle crest and are accompanied by printed directions on how and where to get through the police lines.

Receptions are held for various groups in the government — the cabinet, the judiciary, diplomatic corps, army-navy and congress. Gaudiest are the diplomatic and army-navy receptions because of the acres of gold braid and festoons of medals that go with such jobs. The women are a sleek lot, too. Congressional women, on the other hand are mostly on the heavy-duty side.

Side-Door Guests

Receptions bring two classes of guests and you can tell from the printed matter in your invitation how you rate. On the night of the congressional reception, for instance all members of congress, no matter how humble, get tickets which direct them to the front entrance of the White House facing on Pennsylvania avenue. They are different in color from those given to the lesser fry, so that the White House police can gently weed out any Jay-birds who may blunder in with the partridges.

If you are directed to the "east entrance" you are decidedly second-table, but the distinction lasts only until you get into the building. Once in, all is democracy.

The main floor of the White House is laid out like a "T" crowded at both ends. On one end is the ornate gold and white "East room" for dancing, and on the other the state dining room, a truly beautiful room, finished in walnut. There are served lemonade, wine-punch and cakes. Connecting the two are two corridors. One is a long hallway. The other is really a series of three rooms, the famous green room, the blue room and the red room.

Since receptions are a mass formation job, the army and navy take over. The army seems never content until it has people standing in uniform lines, usually four abreast, and that is the way it is at receptions. Three lines, four abreast, are formed in the gilt East room and from that formation the guests file, past the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the famous green room, the blue room and the red room.

Hard Hand-Shakers Foiled
Just how or why presidents and president's wives must shake hands with a thousand or 1,500 people with a battle of the hands is done, President Coolidge devised a grab and jerk system that was the marvel of his day, but even so he sometimes appeared next day with his hand in a sling.

President Roosevelt, at his latest reception, hooked a cane over the last two fingers of his right hand and it crossed up the ladies eager to crush the president's fingers. Gaffer a gripping assurance that Gopher Corners is for him to the last man. Mrs. Roosevelt, beside him, took her hand shakes straight.

Evidently to save his eyes from strain, the president has adopted a system of looking at you about where you part your hair, or once parted it. He always smiles and says, "How do you do?" "I am glad to see you," Mrs. Roosevelt looks you straight in the eye and says about the same thing. We still think they'd like to call the whole thing off.

Problem Boys Aided on Ranch

Former Psychiatrist Engaged in Rehabilitating Youths

Boulder, Colo. — W. H. Mitchell, former psychiatrist at the Kansas state penitentiary, has gone into the business of rehabilitating youths who are on the verge of losing control of themselves at his Sunset ranch here.

His aim is to restore youths to normalcy when they are threatened with losing their grip on contact with others.

He accepts commitments by juvenile judges but prefers to discipline boys who are on the "ragged edge" before they appear in court. This contact is made through parents who realize that their sons are taking steps which are leading them toward trouble and beyond the barriers accepted by society.

Mitchell operates through consistent discipline in helping the boys solve problems with which they are confronted. The "split" discipline exercised by a doting mother and a stern father or the reverse is of no help to the mal-adjusted youth, Mitchell believes.

The Sunset ranch is a place where become adjusted to school life are enrolled in Boulder high school, while those faced with maladjustment in their school work are tutored at the ranch.

Each boy has two horses for which he must care. He makes his own bed. Each has certain

Drummer One Thing but A Sock-Brass Is Another

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—They were doing a big business the other night in Chez Capone, the swank rendezvous of people who really matter, when suddenly a man left the bar walked back to the orchestra, interrupted the music and said to the leader:—"Hey, wait a minute! Hold still a minute!"

"Well, what's with you?" the leader demanded.

"Nothing's with me," said the man. "I'm all right. I'm strictly all right, friend, but what's with that drummer of yours?"

"Nothing is with that drummer. He has got a card. He is union. Show him your card, Wallie."

"Drummer's card," said the man. "All right for drumming the snare drum. But what's he doing socking that brass? You got to put on another man to sock that."

"A whole guy we got to have to put on just to sock that brass?"

"You heard me, and I got a guy outside." Mr. Chez Capone, the proprietor, thought fast, and decided to put on the extra man to sock the brass thing rather than have pickets around the plant, and maybe have his waiters jerked out in the midst of a big night's business.

So the sock-brass guy climbed into the stand, the agent of the musicians went back to the bar and the evening resumed.

A few minutes later the agent's ears went up, lifting his hat two inches off his head. He strode back to the orchestra again shouting, "Now what's with that drummer?"

"I tell you nothing is with that drummer," the leader said. "He didn't sock that brass, your sock-brass guy done it. Hey, sock-brass, now agent show that brass gag!"

"Who said anything about brass?" the agent yelled. "That drummer whanged that triangle. 'Why haven't you got a triangle-whanger in your line-up?'"

"You mean I got to have a whole guy just to whang that dinky little triangle a few times a night? To hell with it! Wallie, don't whang that gag no more. We will just cut it out of the orchestra."

"You do and we jerk you out of here so fast you trample yourself in the rush," the guy said. "You will use a full crew or no crew."

So the agent put a triangle-whanger up on the stand and things went along all right until the agent heard a couple of those Cuban gourds with the raspberries in them.

It was the drummer in Dutch again. His card didn't permit him to shake those gourds, and the agent wouldn't leave till they put on another guy. The orchestra platform was getting crowded, and it was still more crowded when the agent caught the drummer kicking the trap for the big drum, and put in a big drum trap-kicker to do that.

Overflows Platform. Spreads Onto Dance Floor

Well, as the night wore on the agent made life more and more miserable for the leader and Mr. Chez Capone. He put on a guy to play hooftbeats with the cocoanuts, a guy to play the block and another one to switch that wire egg-beater thing. He put on another to play the sandpaper thing, and still another to clank the cowbell—all jobs formerly performed by the drummer in his spare time. He put in a man to play the boat whistle and another to blow the rubber raspberries, and every time the poor drummer would reach for one of his accustomed gags to give it a little sock or swirl or blow the

'Of Mice and Men' Is Best Play of Current Season, University Women Told

DISAPPOINTING AS A WHOLE, but notable in that it offers "Of Mice and Men," was the way Miss Gertrude Johnson, professor of speech at the University of Wisconsin, described the current theater season on Broadway in a talk before the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women Wednesday night at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

For many years Miss Johnson has gone to New York during the holidays to observe the current theatrical offerings first hand, and this season was the first, she said, in which she was unable to find any play worth her time three nights while she was there. Not only were the plays few in number, she declared, but most of them were uninteresting.

She pointed out that until a week ago not a single play of the season 1937-38 had been bought by the motion picture companies. "The Star-Wagon" was bought last week for $55,000, but the price is unusually low.

There was much talk this season of the return of several well known authors, but they might just as well not have returned, Miss Johnson continued. She didn't even go to see Sidney Howard's "The Ghost of Yankee Doodle," in which Ethel Barrymore appeared, and which has since closed. Rachel Crothers did no better in her return with "Susan and God," in Miss Johnson's opinion. She praised Gertrude Lawrence, the star, but said the play was badly written, illogical and poorly directed.

Even Maxwell Anderson's play, "The Star-Wagon," she declared, is much beneath his dignity. With an author like Anderson, players like Burgess Meredith and Lillian Gish in the leading roles and a capable producer, the play should have been a knockout, she said, but to her it was a complete disappointment. Meredith, who did such excellent work in "Winter's" and "High Tor," plays his part in "The Star-Wagon" like an amateur. Miss Johnson charged. The play is cumbersome, making considerable use of the flashback, and it will make a much better movie than it is a play, she believes.

Poor English
Admitting that she was painting a "not very jolly" picture of the current theater, Miss Johnson went on to point out that there are six plays now being presented in New York in which there is hardly a line or phrase of good English. The plays, she said, are "Pins and Needles," "Golden Boy," "Of Mice and Men," "Having Wonderful Time," "Room Service" and "The Cradle Will Rock."

In spite of its being classed in the "no good English" group, "Of Mice and Men," Miss Johnson said, is the finest thing in New York. In her opinion no other dramatic offering of the season comes anywhere near it. It is a tragedy, taken from John Steinbeck's novel of the same name, and is, according to Miss Johnson, perfectly cast and directed. One of the leading roles is played by Broderick Crawford, son of Helen Broderick, the screen comedian.

"You may find it a trying experience, but you should see it," Miss Johnson advised her listeners. Selmon, she said, had she seen anything that put her in such sympathy with humanity or made her wish more that she could better social conditions.

"Susan and God," presumably because of Gertrude Lawrence's acting, she ranked second in merit along the current Broadway plays; "Julius Caesar" third; and then "Father Malachy's Miracle" and "Amphitryon." The others, Miss Johnson said, are hardly worth mentioning.

She Makes the Play
As Father Malachy in "Father Malachy's Miracle," Al Shean makes the play, she said. The story is impossible, but charming from start to finish.

Of "Amphitryon 38," in which Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt are appearing, Miss Johnson said, "You'd enjoy it," but it does not, she added, warrant the big build-up it got in the advance publicity. The Lunts are doing as clever work as they've done since they appeared in "Reunion in Vienna," she declared, but they are the only two people on the stage almost all evening and a play has to be "terribly good," to quote Miss Johnson, to be carried by two people.

Miss Johnson was particularly scathing in her criticism of "Id Rather Be Right," the much publicized musical comedy on the New Deal. Musical comedies should have catchy tunes and good dances, she charged. The setting was the same for the whole show, George M. Cohan, the star, never left the stage and the lines didn't sound so funny, she said.

And the fact that Joan Crawford, almost stopped the play when she came in to take her place in the audience that night and that Mr. Cohan played direct, to her the rest of the evening, did not raise the prestige of the play any, Miss Johnson thought. The impression that the movie stars make in New York is appalling, Miss Johnson said. Even the president wouldn't create such a stir.

Amateurish Story
"Golden Boy," with Luther Adler and Frances Farmer in the leading roles, is no good either, Miss Johnson declared. She called it an amateurish story and said it violated all the tenets of play writing. The acting was as bad as the story, she said, for Luther Adler was artificial and Frances Farmer was badly miscast, charming, when she wasn't supposed to be.

Miss Johnson's lecture last night marked her third appearance here under the auspices of the American Association of University Women. She was honored at a dinner given at the Hearstone earlier in the evening by the cabinet of the AAUW.

The association's next meeting will be Feb. 2 at Mrs. Donald Porter's home, 1 Bellaire court, with Miss Lois Mitchell as speaker. Miss Mitchell is a regional director of orthopedic work and will speak and show movies of orthopedic work being done in the state.

Parties
Harold Meiers was surprised at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Meiers, 1410 W. Wisconsin avenue, Wednesday night, in honor of his twenty-third birthday anniversary. Former Kaiser Celebrates His Seventy-Ninth Birthday

Doorn, the Netherlands—(AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday today—one of his happiest since he fled to his wood-chopping exile in closing hours of the World war.

He was convinced that the once mighty Hohenzollerns, erstwhile ruling family of Germany, and their cousins the British house of Windsor were friends again.

The affectionate signatures, "Berthe, May and Elizabeth," on a telegram from King George VI (Berthe), Queen Mother Mary (May), and Queen Elizabeth spelled for him the healing of an intra-family scar which festered when British and German troops faced each other on the western front.

The telegram, it was disclosed, conveyed British royal congratulations upon the engagement of the Kaiser's favorite grandson, Prince Louis Ferdinand, and Princess Kira of the Russian Romanoffs Dec. 28.

There had been previous gestures on the part of the British royal family indicating reviving friendship with other Hohenzollerns, but this was the first sign of reconciliation with the former Kaiser himself.

Today's celebration program was on traditional lines: divine service at 9 a. m., felicitations and presents from the family, the Kaiser in silent prayer in the boudoir which his first wife, the former Empress Auguste Victoria, occupied until her death, lunch with members of the family and a gala evening dinner with the former monarch in field marshal's uniform.

HE'S 79 TODAY

Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany today celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday at Doorn, the Netherlands. A telegram from Queen Mother Mary, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of England indicated a reconciliation to end an estrangement which prevailed since the World war.

CATHARTICS A BAD HABIT

If you have common constipation, due to lack of bulk in the diet, the great objection to pills and purgatives is that they only perpetuate the trouble.

Why not encourage elimination with a natural laxative food—with Kellogg's All-Bran. It absorbs moisture and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination. At the same time it improves intestinal tone because Kellogg's All-Bran contains the intestinal tonic vitamin B.

Eat All-Bran as a cereal or baked in muffins. And drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg at Battle Creek.

Asserts Kidnap-Slayer Was Visitor at Tavern

Rice Lake, Wis.—(AP)—John Rindlsbacher, owner of a tavern here, said he was positive John Henry Seadlund, confessed kidnap-slayer of Charles S. Ross, had visited the tavern with three companions late last September.

Rindlsbacher said he believed he could identify the men who were with Seadlund. The four, he said, bought several drinks of whiskey and played billiards. He said he believed James Atwood Gray, Seadlund's confederate in the Ross abduction whom he also admitted killing, was not in the group.

The four visited the tavern at least once after the first visit, Rindlsbacher said.

Council Orders Loader Repaired To Remove Snow

Aldermen Decide to Use Idle Machine to Speed Work

In a move to facilitate removal of snow from Appleton streets, aldermen at a special meeting this morning voted 6 to 4 to "put the city's snow loader in shape to be used when necessary."

The problem of machine versus men crept into municipal affairs when Mayor Goodland, two days ago, ordered the street department to repair the loader, which has been standing idle for the last nine years, so that it could be used to expedite snow removal work in Appleton's business district.

Lloyd M. Schindler, city engineer, forced the special meeting by refusing to repair the machine until its repair was ordered by the council on the grounds that the council, in 1929, ordered the street department to discontinue using the machine.

On Alderman Keller's motion to resume use of the snow loader, Aldermen Franke, Grignon, Keller, Steinhauer, Thompson and Vanderheyden were in favor while Aldermen Brautigam, Harriman, Knuit and McGillan opposed use of the loader before the vote was taken and Alderman Kubitz was absent.

Use of the snow loader was discontinued in 1929 when men were in need of work and the council decided to create work by using men instead of machines for snow removal. The loader has not been used since. Mechanics estimated it would take two men two days to repair the machine and put it on the streets.

Mayor Goodland stated, "My object is to get the loader in and get the downtown district cleared of snow as quickly as possible so that men and trucks can be released to other sections of the city where they are needed."

Schindler told the council the loader had been idle for the last nine years but its motor was used during that time in a small tractor. "The motor is in poor shape and if it breaks down on the street we will have trucks standing idle until it can be repaired. This would be a waste of money," he said.

Debate Problem of Labor Alderman Harriman favored using men instead of the loader and said, "It would take five men to operate the machine which could only be used on a few streets. It could not be used on black top roads because the tractor wheels would spoil the pavement. I believe the work should be given to men and that's the way I'm going to vote."

Alderman Grignon argued, "We have plenty of places where we can give men work and get productive returns while employing them. Why take the long way to remove snow when we have a machine that will do the work?"

Maintaining that men could remove the snow as fast as loader, Alderman McGillan said, "When I worked in the street department, I have seen the loader down for repairs for six hours at a stretch. When it is working, a truck can be loaded in about a minute and a half. Four or five men can load a truck in about two minutes so I can't see where we will save any time."

Watched Loading Mayor Goodland said he watched the loader load across from city hall yesterday and took from 12 to 15 minutes to load each one. "I saw that with my own eyes," he said.

The city engineer explained that the present snow was wet, had frozen and was very hard to handle. Alderman Steinhauer favored giving work to men although he admitted the loader would "do the work in half the time. Alderman Keller said he wanted to see men have work but he believed the loader should be repaired and ready for work in case of emergency.

Worked Too Fast

"We took the loader off because it did the work too fast and that eliminates the question of whether men are as fast as machines," Alderman Thompson stated. "I'm interested in seeing the snow taken from the downtown districts and divert the men to other streets."

Alderman Franke wanted to see all business places treated the same as those in the "loop" district. He said, "We have 49 business places on Wisconsin avenue and no one worries whether or not the snow is cleared from the road in front of their establishments. They have to pay taxes as well as business men downtown. Let's lure more men away from trucks."

Before the meeting adjourned, Alderman Vanderheyden proposed that property owners pay $6 per year to have snow carried away from the street in front of their stores by the city. Some of the aldermen favored and some opposed the proposal which will probably be thrashed out at a future meeting.

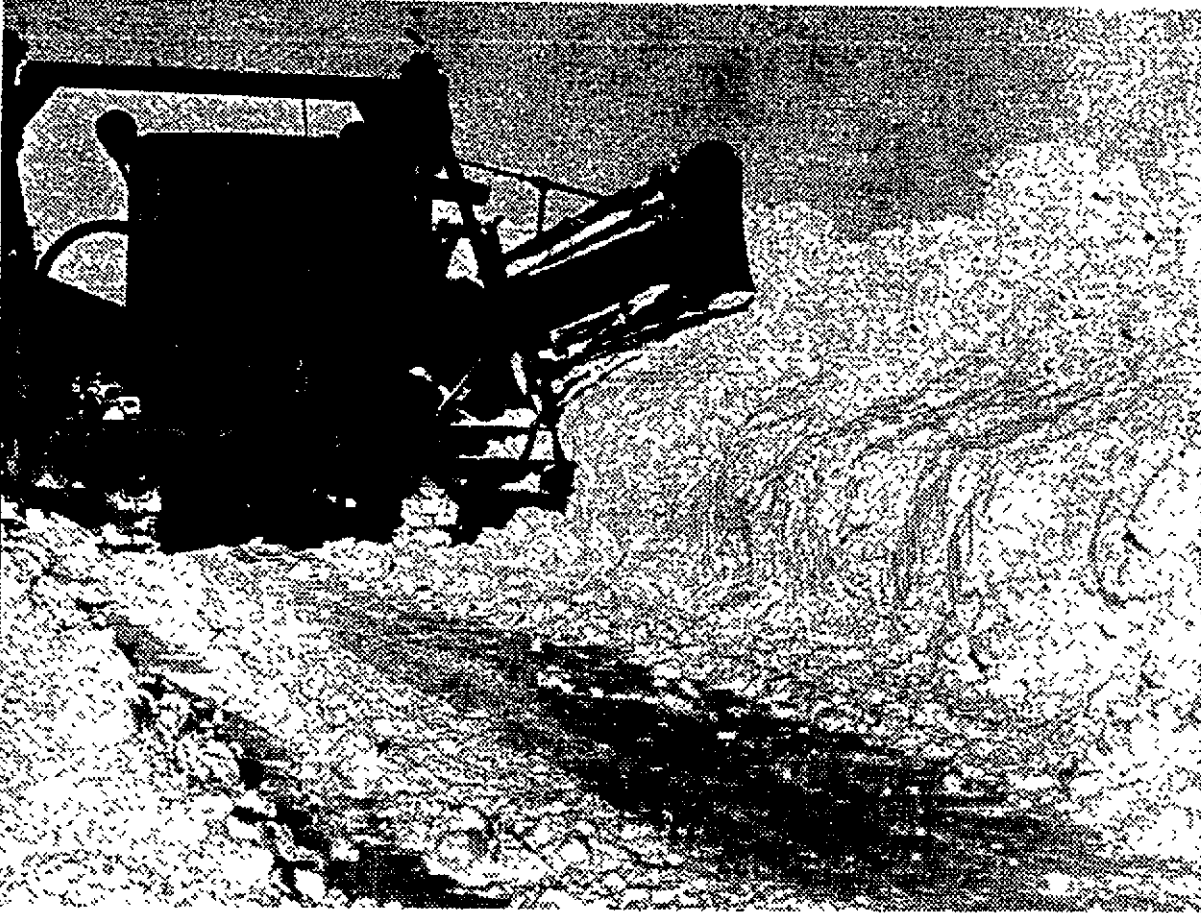

Sentenced to Federal Prison on Girl's Charges

Boston—Federal Judge George C. Sweeney today sentenced Herbert L. Badger, Jr., 25-year-old Walpole Sunday school teacher and choir master, to three years in a federal penitentiary after a jury convicted him of transporting a 14-year-old Westwood girl to Jacksonville, Fla., for immoral purposes. The girl testified she met Badger while she was a member of the choir of which he was master. She told of keeping trysts with him after rehearsals.

She said they were intimate for the first time after they parked their automobile outside a Jacksonville airport. Badger denied the charges.

Famed Niagara Falls Bridge Wins Battle Against Attacking Ice Jams

New vigor. Present damage can be repaired in about two months, he said.

When the jam was at its worst last night 20 men were lowered by ropes to the rumbling ice pack. Laboring under the glare of flood lights they attempted to build a crib around the bridge pier on the American side. More than 1,300 watched from both Canadian and American sides as huge pressure cracks opened and closed near the laboring men.

McCausland said I. R. C. engineers expected the bridge to settle, but not tip over, when the ice goes out.

All night the jam pounded at the generating plant of the Ontario Hydro-Electric commission, flooding and battering the machinery. When the jam rose almost without warning yesterday morning the employees of the plant fled as the ice and water poured through walls and windows.

Another plant, not affected, took over the burden of supplying power.

Wouldbe Robber Lacks

"Guts," Surrenders Gun Milwaukee—(U)—George Eliopoulos helped police write an odd chapter in their "crime book" today.

A young man entered his tavern, George related. The youth drank a glass of wine, fidgeted, then handed George a .22 pistol—bust first.

"I came here to hold you up," the youth said, "but I haven't got the guts. I'm married, with a family, and need money badly. Keep that gun. I've changed my mind."

The youth started away, then turned and gave George a shoulder holster. "You might as well have this, too," he said, and walked out.

"If that is not pleasing to the A. F. of L. we offer the alternative proposal that on the first day of February, the A. F. of L. unions march into the CIO, horse, foot and dragon, receive charters and hold a convention later to arrange details."

Lewis prefaced his peace discussion with the assertion that growth of the CIO as a force for industrial unionism had injured no labor faction.

Kidnaper Complains of Noise in Nearby Cell

Chicago—(U)—John Henry Seadlund, confessed kidnap of Charles S. Ross, started today with a complaint and calisthenics.

Awakened by the clattering and shouting of a prisoner in a nearby cell before dawn, Seadlund demanded of a county jail guard: "What's the matter with him? Is he crazy?" Presently, he fell asleep again.

After breakfast, Seadlund started a routine of physical exercises, then resumed his reading of books.

A hearing on the kidnapping and slaying charges will be held before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker Feb. 2, but District Attorney Michael L. Iggo expects to present the case to a federal grand jury tomorrow.

Albert Dalton, president of the Cleveland unit, said it was the first time workers had joined other agencies in selling housing.

The committee will cooperate with real estate men, manufacturers, and distributors of building materials to promote definite housing projects. Details remained to be worked out.

Members of the committee were Dan W. Tracy, Richard J. Gray and William L. Hutchison, general presidents respectively of the electrical workers, the bricklayers, masons and plasterers, and the carpenters and joiners unions.

As part of the program in Cleveland the building trades council there adopted a resolution advising the public that no further increases in the wage scales would be sought for two years. Whether similar action might be taken in the national program was not indicated.

Dalton said plans also were under way in Cleveland to set up an arbitration board composed of contractors and labor to settle jurisdictional differences and other conflicts that might impede construction.

The A. F. of L. executive council meanwhile was occupied principally with internal union affairs.

Prospects for immediate peace between the federation and the CIO appeared to be little changed by a proposal of John L. Lewis, CIO chairman.

President William Green of the A. F. of L. said the proposal was "the same old thing" and if adopted would result only in transferring the conflict from outside the A. F. of L. into its midst.

Board Votes $250 For Materials on Sewing Projects

Requested Appropriation Of $250 for WPA Work Cut in Half

Waupaca—An appropriation of $250 for the purchase of materials for WPA sewing projects was made by the Waupaca county board at a 1-day meeting yesterday.

Hugh Raymond, administrator of the public welfare department asked for an appropriation of $500, but the amount was cut in half. Raymond pointed out that the sewing projects bring in $8,000 a year through the payrolls.

He repeated his request for office rent which was turned down at the November session of the board. The board at that time suggested that he return his office to the highway shops where it formerly was located and which Raymond said was not adequate for the purposes of his department. The office will be established in the welfare office in the county board room until May when a basement room of the court house will be in readiness for the department.

The board passed a resolution commending Charles W. Larson, highway commissioner, and the personnel of that department, for their efficient work in keeping the highway open during the storm earlier this week. It was pointed out that they made it possible for the board to hold its scheduled session.

Name Committee

H. W. Werth, Big Falls, Joe Keller, Clunville, and Ike Poeple, New London, were named on an advisory committee for the Waupaca County Agricultural fair at Weyauwega upon the suggestion of Victor Anthony, Weyauwega, who felt the board should have a share in the planning of the fair.

The sheriff's and constable's report for expenses of $1,546.64 incurred during the recent labor strikes at New London and Manawa and in the investigation of the robbery of the Clintonville post office was read by Henry Weller, Clintonville. District Attorney Paul Roman pointed out that it is a compulsory obligation on part of the county and cities to protect property owners when such trouble arises.

A stone crushing project is being carried on in a large quarry near New London. H. P. Lee, Iowa, member of the highway committee, reported. Men hired for snow removal work earlier in the winter were employed on the project when there was no snow removal work, he pointed out. Cities and villages interested in an oiling job were requested to notify the committee as soon as possible.

The board adjourned until May. H. W. Werth, Big Falls, vice chairman, presided at the session yesterday in the absence of L. W. Eastling, chairman.

Expect Jones Park Ice Rink Will be Flooded by Sunday

Park board workmen today began the task of removing snow from Jones park rink in an effort to provide a place to skate over the weekend, according to Harold Jerke, park superintendent. The rink will be flooded as soon as it is cleared of snow and is expected to be ready for skaters by Sunday.

VETERINARIAN DIES

Milwaukee—(U)—Dr. Sherman W. Mount, 72, former special state veterinarian and a long-time member of the city health department, died last night. He entered public service in 1913 and continued in various capacities until ill health forced his retirement in 1935.

It Is Said--

That a testimony of how much snow fell on College avenue during the storm could be seen yesterday at the edge of the gully west of the city fair grounds.

Trucks were dumping snow scraped off the city's main thoroughfare and by 3:30 in the afternoon had built a miniature mountain. The process intrigued many a passerby who stopped to watch the pile grow.

That when Monday night's storm cut off the electric current in some neighborhoods in the city, persons with shiny, new electrical conveniences were embarrassed.

Among the stories is that of a young man, recently married, who had to romp over to his mother's house with the coffee pot to keep it boiling. He has a new electric stove.

Two young men from Michigan, Fred C. May, 23, (left) and Lawrence Sargeant, 25, have been bound over to March term of circuit court at Port Washington on charges growing out of the killing of Alex Baumgarten, proprietor of a tavern near Port Washington, during a holdup.

May, of Traverse City, Mich., was charged with first degree murder and Sargeant, Hastings, Mich., with being an accessory before the fact. A third man is being sought.

Zero Weather Follows in Storm's Wake; 5 Students Marooned All Night in Car

With zero temperatures last night and early this morning, citizens of Appleton and vicinity could look back on four days of every kind of weather winter can produce.

The snow was steadily retreating against the advance of men and machines today as city streets and highways in this area were opened again to traffic. Forecasts of fair weather tonight and rising temperatures tomorrow banished fears of a recurrence of the storm that raged Monday and Tuesday.

The mercury slid to the zero mark at midnight last night and at noon today stood at eight above. The highest mark reached during the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning was 19 above, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

Meanwhile, stories of people marooned in the drifts and of rescue efforts still circulated about the Appleton area.

The best yarn today was about five Neenah High school students from Allenville who were snow-bound for 41 hours. 14 of which were spent in an automobile stuck in a snow drift on Winnebago county trunk T three-quarters of a mile from Highway 41.

The students, George Wilcox, Leslie Smith, Belle Moldenhauer, Annie Mariani Smith, and Ariel Smith, came back to their homes Monday afternoon after attending classes at Neenah. When the storm became threatening, their parents urged them to return to Neenah so they could be certain of reaching school the next day.

Called for Plow

The students, aided by five men from nearby farms, did their best to move the car, but the snow was too deep. A farmer said he would call for a snow plow and advised the students to wait. The plow never came.

They snuggled down in blankets, kept the car heater operating, sang songs, munched on apples, and even read from a book the Wilcox boy had taken from the library.

At 6:30 Tuesday morning, Edward Christian, a farmer living near, saw that the car was still in the drifts. He waded waist-deep to the machine and guided the three girls and two boys back to his home, presenting them with a bountiful breakfast. They remained at the Christian farm home Tuesday night, returning to their homes yesterday noon after the plows finally broke through. They were all back at school today.

"I kept the motor running for about five hours so the heater would work," the Wilcox youth said today. "Then the gas was almost gone, so I shut it off to save enough to get to a station. I read a book and the other fellow and I played games, using the dome light. The girls slept, sitting on each other's feet to keep them warm. When the snow started to blow into the car from the side, we fastened the blanket across the window."

Hike Through Drifts

Three girls, living four miles from Neenah, floundered through the drifts to reach school. They were Betty and Helen Nelson and Alice Cloutier. A boy, Morgan Jorgensen, living on the Lake Shore road, walked more than five miles.

At noon today, a snow drift on Clark street was all that remained before Appleton streets would be open. Some streets had only 1-way passage, but city equipment was busy widening them. Eighty men were removing snow from College avenue and its intersections. Trucks were dumping it near the city fair grounds.

Frank R. Appleton, county highway commissioner, reported that all state and federal highways in the county were passable and that the fleet of county snow-removal units was digging away at county trunk lines.

Public schools in the city reopened this afternoon after being closed a day and a half. At Kaukauna, 100 students were absent from high school yesterday. Olin C. Dryer, principal, said. Two plays scheduled at the Kaukauna High school were postponed until today.

Cloudiness will accompany tomorrow's rising temperatures, the Milwaukee weather bureau reported. Sun and blue skies reigned in Appleton this afternoon for the second day.

Los Angeles reported 82 yesterday, the nation's high. Devils Lake, N. D., had 21 below.

P. M. Garvey, chairman of the town of Onondia, said today that all roads in the town were ready for traffic. The town of Onondia operates its own plow and in the pres-

Motorists Have Until March 1 to Get '38 Licenses

State Asks Police to Permit Use of 1937 Plates During February

Police of Appleton and surrounding cities and villages were requested today by Theodore Dammann, secretary of state, to make no arrests of persons using 1937 Wisconsin automobile license plates on their cars until after March 1.

The legal deadline is Feb. 1. In legislative years the deadline usually is extended by act of the legislature, but in alternate years there can be no extension. However, motorists are given the advantage of an additional month in which to secure licenses through the cooperation of local police at the state's request that no arrests be made during that period.

A number of appeals were made to Governor LaFollette that additional time be given this year.

"In view of these appeals for an extension of licenses, it is requested by Governor LaFollette and myself that the enforcement officers make no arrests of automobile owners using 1937 license plates on their cars until after March 1," the secretary of state says in his letter to law enforcement officers.

They will accede to the request.

OPPOSE ROAD PROJECT Janesville—(U)—By a vote of 55 to 2, the Rock county board today refused to approve the relocation of United States Highway 51 north of Janesville as proposed by the state highway department. The proposal called for elimination of a winding section through an old stone quarry.

Williams Chairman Of Scout Drive in Appleton District

Dates Will be Approved by Executive Board in Meeting Friday

Ross E. Williams has been appointed general chairman for the Appleton district boy scout campaign, Walter Dixon, scout executive, said yesterday.

Dates for the campaign, which will be held in the first quarter of the year, will be set by Ross and approved at a meeting of the valley council executive board following a 6:30 dinner Friday night in the Conway hotel, Dixon said. Ross and Dixon planned to meet today and discuss the campaign.

Williams, long interested in the boy scout program, headed last year's drive which netted $4,500 and went down as the most successful in valley council history.

Within a few days he will name his committees and workers. William Buchanan is general chairman of the advanced campaign now being carried on in the Appleton district. The response to the initial drive has been gratifying, Dixon reported.

Two new executive board members, Max Stieg, chairman of the Clintonville district, and Edward Rennie, newly appointed Kaukauna district chairman, will be introduced at the meeting Friday night.

Annual reports on membership, camping and other scout affairs which will be forwarded to the New York office will be given at the meeting. The annual meeting of the valley council will be planned by the executive board. Such matters as time, program, and location will be settled.

Organization assignments for formation of new Cub and Boy Scout troops during this year will be made out at the board meeting and the spring merit badge show, camp promotion, camp personnel discussed. The 1938 budget and financial program will receive considerable study. Miscellaneous business, leadership training, and nominating committee appointments will be considered.

YOUR Income Tax

WHO MUST FILE RETURNS

Returns are required of every single person who for their year had a gross income of $5,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 or more and of every husband and wife living together who for the year 1937 had an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more or an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more. Widowers, widows, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent are classified as single persons. The personal exemptions are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families.

Husband and wife living together at the close of the taxable year may include their income in a single point return or make separate returns. If separate returns are filed, one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which actually belongs to him. If a joint return is filed, such return is treated as a taxable unit, and the income disclosed is subject to both the normal tax and the surtax.

In order for a return to be classified as a joint return of husband and wife both spouses must have had some income or deductions in the year for which the return is filed, and the return must include the income and deductions of both spouses.

If a joint return is not made by an agent of the taxpayers it must be signed by both husband and wife and sworn to before a proper officer by the spouse preparing the return, or if neither or both prepare the return then by both spouses.

Where separate returns are filed by husband and wife, the joint personal exemption of $2,500 may be taken by either or divided between them in any proportion as agreed upon.

In filing a joint return husband and wife compute the earned income credit in the same manner as in filing separate returns. If taxpayer's net income is not more than $3,000, the entire net income is considered to be earned net income.

Husband and wife may elect each year where to file a joint return or separate returns. Where, however, joint or separate returns have been filed for a particular year, the due date of the return file an amended return or returns on a different basis for that year.

Arrangements for President's Ball Friday Completed

Record Attendance Predicted for Dance at Rainbow Gardens

With the sales committee cleaning up the ticket sales campaign today, everything is in readiness for the annual president's birthday anniversary ball Friday night at the Rainbow Gardens. Edward J. Byrne, Appleton chairman, said today. Indications are that the crowd this year will be much larger than that which attended the dance last year, the chairman said. Six acts will be presented on the floor show program and dancing will begin at 8:30 in the evening. Those not having tickets may secure them at the Rainbow Gardens.

Dance proceeds will go to the new national Foundation for Infantile Paralysis created last year by President Roosevelt to set up a permanent program for the fight against the disease.

Will Lead Fight "This foundation will lead, direct and unify the fight on every phase of this sickness," President Roosevelt said in defining the general purpose of the new foundation. "It will make every effort to ensure that every responsible research agency in this country is adequately financed to carry on investigations into the cause of infantile paralysis and the methods by which it may be prevented."

"It will endeavor to eliminate much of the needless after-effect of this sickness," President Roosevelt said in defining the general purpose of the new foundation. "It will make every effort to ensure that every responsible research agency in this country is adequately financed to carry on investigations into the cause of infantile paralysis and the methods by which it may be prevented."

"The new foundation will carry on a broad-gauged educational campaign, prepared under expert medical supervision, and this will be placed within reach of the doctors and hospitals of the country."

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Cambridge, Mass.—Incredibly fine is the star dust which endlessly pelts the earth.

Star dust is made up of meteors. A thousand million meteors fall in to the earth's atmosphere each twenty-four hours according to the most recent studies, which are published in the Telescope, of Harvard Observatory, by Fletcher Watson.

Lumped together, this thousand million daily meteors, he estimates, would weigh only 150 pounds. This means that most of them would have to be looked for with a microscope.

Driving through space at 40 to 50 miles a second this star dust might not seem soft to a human hand thrust into the atmosphere, but against celestial bodies it has no punch.

It required telescopes and the clear nights of high Arizona altitudes to detect these smaller meteors. Those that make a flash the eye can see may be no larger than a grain of dust. Occasionally one weighs several pounds. Rarely is one of many tons recorded. Watson concludes that all the meteors falling since the earth was formed have not increased its girth by more than an inch.

Hunters Must Make Their Game Census Reports by Feb. 1

Sportsmen today were advised by John E. Hantschel, Outagamie county clerk, that Tuesday, Feb. 1, is the last day for the filing of game census reports. The report should be made directly to the conservation commission at Madison.

Game census reports should be made to insure the eligibility of the sportsman for securing a hunting license next year. A report is required even if the hunter made no kills during the year. The reports are used as a basis to estimate cycles in animal life and to determine regulations for the next season.

Report blanks were distributed with the hunting licenses. In case a hunter has mislaid or lost his card one may be secured from the county clerk. The conservation department has instructed county clerks to issue no license to a hunter next fall unless the hunter has made his report.

Speech Classes To Present Play

'The Scarlet Ghost' to be Staged Feb. 6 at Little Chute

Little Chute—The Senior and Junior speech classes of St. John High school will present "The Scarlet Ghost," a mystery comedy in three acts by Jean Provenca, at the school auditorium at 7:30 Sunday evening, Feb. 6. Matinee performances will be given at 2 o'clock Friday and Saturday afternoon. The story of the play centers around old Hetty Norton, a wealthy woman who has always had her own way and who has always been accustomed to running and regulating the lives of all around her. When one of her nephews decides to be an author and another decides to marry an actress against her wishes, Hetty goes into a tantrum and fireworks fly. Then the family lawyer brings a huge sum of money to the house to be kept over-night in an old out-moded wall safe. The attempts of various people to get the money, to solve the appearance and disappearance of the Scarlet Ghost, and to straighten out their love affairs makes an especially exciting evening at the Norton mansion. The play is being given under the direction of Mrs. James Geyer and specialties between acts will be furnished by members of the Junior class and the high school orchestra.

The cast of characters: Hetty Norton—Dorothy Mae Heesacker; Shirley Stone, a young woman of the press—Eileen Vander Velde; Hank Halloran, the gardener who is a self-developed detective—Gordon Lamers; Allen Montgomery, Hetty's nephew who wants to be an author—Roger Koehn; Elma Adams, secretary to Hetty for years—Betty Vanden Heuvel; Clarence Macklin, the family attorney—Sylvester Lenz; Janice, the maid with a nose for news—Evelyn De Groot; Spencer Norton, Hetty's other nephew who wants to be a husband—Albin Bevers; Dorothy Norton, Spencer's new wife—Geraldine Dercks; Jim Flynn, inspector of police—Anthony Simons.

Mrs. Anton Jansen, W. Main street, entertained a few friends at cards at her home Monday afternoon. Contract bridge was played. The guests were: Mrs. Anna Hammen, Mrs. Margaret Vanden Brand, Mrs. C. J. Bell and Mrs. Henry Lucassen.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Conrad are visiting for several weeks with friends and relatives in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Martin Kempen, Garfield avenue, returned Wednesday from St. Elizabeth hospital where he submitted to a major operation.

Anton Jansen left Tuesday on a business trip to Williamsport, Pa. A son was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Pynenberg and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. George Driesen.

Final arrangements have been made for the fourth annual Birth-day ball and card party which will be sponsored in this village Sunday evening. The dancing party will be held at the legion hall and the card party will be held at the St. John school auditorium. Judging from the sale of tickets so far there will be a larger attendance than previous years. Mrs. Clara Lenz is general chairman of the affair assisted by John A. Vanden Heuvel, Mrs. George Versteegen, Arthur Pennings and Mrs. John G. Jansen. The purpose of the affair is to create funds with which to help victims of infantile paralysis and to support research efforts to wipe out the disease itself.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ewald and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bublitz of Weyauwega were guests Sunday of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Bell.

West Bays Primed To Whip Terrors

Off Year; Hope to Make Most of It*Sports Mirror

GREEN BAY—Hoping to climb above its present ranking of fourth place in the Fox River Valley conference basketball standings, Green Bay West will journey to Appleton Friday evening for its first tangle of the year with Coach Joe Shields' Terrors.

Appleton, handily defeated by Oshkosh and East, is expected to be in the toughest frame of mind of the season, and Coach F. L. Ferzacca is taking this psychological setup into mind as he drills his Wildcats.

School Is Out

Although school was dismissed because of the blizzard, Ferzacca drilled West's squad yesterday afternoon, and reported the Wildcats looking better than in their previous drill Monday. The coach has about decided to start Paul Edwards, a fine ball handler, at one guard position, and move Vernon Anderson to forward in an effort to get more height into the front line.

Charley Austin and Johnny Storz, who have been monopolizing the forward spots, have played aggressive, fighting basketball but neither has displayed much of a tendency to roll up the points. Ferzacca believes Anderson will help supply this quality in the forward line.

Gordon Muster has developed so rapidly at guard that he is a fixture, and Edwards is about ready to plug in at the other back court spot.

The rivalry between West and Appleton is one of the lengthiest in conference history, having extended to 24 games since 1923, the first year of valley play. In all those games West has taken but four victories, two of which came in 1932, the Wildcats' championship year. West nicked Appleton for single decisions in 1925 and 1928, but on all other occasions victory has rested with the Terrors, who have scored 517 points while granting the Wildcats but 323.

Trailing No. 65

If Appleton really is having an off year, Ferzacca wants to take advantage of it without delay. West is on the trail of its 65th conference victory. Since 1923 the Cats have taken 64 contests, and lost 92, scoring 2,739 points, and lost 92, scoring 2,739 points, and lost 92, scoring 2,739 points.

8:30—Y.M.C.A. versus Fox River.

9:30—Wire Works versus Lutz Ice.

Y.M.C.A. basketball team will round up its best talent this evening in an effort to knock the Fox River out of first place in the City-Y.M.C.A. league when they clash at 8:30 at the association gymnasium. The Y squad has won five and lost two but still feels it can take the Fox River if all its talent can be rallied around.

The evening's program will open at 7:30 when the Merchants battle the Town Taxi. The Merchants looked good even in defeat last week and are just about due to upset them.

The 9:30 game will bring together the Wire Works and the Lutz Ice company. The Wires are in second place and the Icemen second from the bottom.

Big Jim Weaver Signs Contract With Browns

St. Louis—(P)—Big Jim Weaver, pitcher recently obtained by the St. Louis Browns from the Pittsburgh Pirates, yesterday signed a 1-year contract. The salary was not disclosed.

Weaver came to St. Louis for the signing from his home in Covington, Ky. He was with the Browns for a trial in 1934.

The St. Louis Cardinals announced the release of Outfielder Lou Scofield to its Rochester, N. Y. farm club of the International league.

Stevens Point Cager Stars for Penn Five

West Point, N. Y. (P)—Army's basketball team won its seventh straight victory last night handing Pennsylvania's Quakers a 39 to 29 defeat.

Cadet Walter Brinker, pace-setter of the Army outfit so far this year, continued his sharp-shooting with 21 points on five field goals and 11 fouls, to top the scorers.

Army's tight defense kept Penn from scoring a field goal through the first 15 minutes of the opening half. The Quakers finally broke through, but Army led 22-16 at the intermission.

A total of 44 fouls were called during the game, and each team collected 13 points from the free-throw line. Ray Menzel, of Stevens Point Wis., center, scored 2 points for Pennsylvania.

ORVILLE STRUTZ of the Tuttle Press team took the industrial bowling league last evening at the Arcade alleys when he rolled a 259 for high game and ended up with a 630 series for high in that department. Schlafher Hardware surprised with a 985 for the best team game and Montgomery Ward showed a 2,631 for high series.

The other feature of the evening was the Fond Sport team taking three games from the Appleton Machine and a 2-game lead in the standings. Myron Seims paced the sports with a 225 game and 611 series while F. Bendi crashed through with a 243 and 588. For the Machines, Wally Ecker blasted a 210 and 202 but had a mere 129 in the first game and ended with a 541.

Tuttles, Atlas Tied

Tuttle Press and Atlas Printers each won one game and remained tied for second place. The Tuttles won their single game from the Montgomery Ward team. Orville Strutz had his big totals for the Tuttle team. He rolled a 202 game and 611 series. Jim Iverson rolled a 235 game and 580 series and J. Herman a 200 game for the Wards.

Atlas Printers topped their only game from the Telefones. Casey Stangle rolled a 221 game and 564 series and A. Meyer a 219 game and 537 series for the Atlas. For the Telefones, Ray Dagneau showed a 201 and 212 and a 602 series while F. Briske hit a 203 game and 560 series.

Tuttle Cubs whipped the Fox River Papers in a two Jack Clegg rolled a 563 series with a 196 game for the Cubs. Everett Wegner rolled a 203, 211 and 194 and 608 series for the Fox River.

Power company figured on three easy wins when it took the drives against the Schlafher Hardware but in the final game the Schlafers up and rolled a 965 for high game for the night and the Powers were chastened. Mike Sakallaris rolled a 203 and 559 for the Powers and McGee a 150 and Lippert a 461 for the Schlafers.

Post-Crescent improved its rating with two wins over the Coated Paper company. Eddie Stenard and Irv Weiss rolled 204's for the Post and Eddie a 559 series. Len Handstead had a 198 and 521 for the Coated Paper company.

Playing Managers to be Scarce
When 1938 Season Rolls Around

NEW YORK—(P)—You're going to find the playing-manager as scarce as the hair on a bald head when this season rolls around.

Old pop times has just about completed a mop-up campaign that will leave only one, Joe Cronin of Boston's Red Sox, still doing regular business at the old stand. It's going to be far different from the last few years when more than half the dugouts in the big leagues were bugged by maestros doubling as stars in the past.

They'll be saying good-bye to Rogers Hornsby, who won't even be in a big league park, and two of the classiest of modern third basemen, Pie Traynor and Jimmy Dykes.

Traynor, particularly, won't even be on the Pirates' roster except as a manager. He's definitely decided that he's all through, and will rest on the 319 batting average and the smooth fielding record he compiled in his 16-year career.

Dykes will make up his mind after a spring training workout whether he'll get into action for his twenty-first season, but it's highly unlikely, since he now has Mary Owen to handle the hot corner for his White Sox.

Won't See Much Action

Altogether, six of the nine pilots who were on the active player list last year, including both Hornsby and his St. Louis Browns' successor, Jim Bottomley, will be missing from the playing rosters for 1938. And two of the other three probably won't see enough action to warrant getting into the box score.

This group, incidentally, represents some of the most valuable playing ivory of the modern school. Seven of the nine hit for well over .300 in careers stretching from 11 to 22 years. Altogether, they make up that reads like a "dream team." For instance, there would be Bill Terry or Bottomley on first; Hornsby or Fordham Frankie Frisch on second; Cronin at shortstop, and Dykes or Traynor on third, with a catching department of Mickey Cochrane or Deitz and Jimmy Wilson, the Phillies manager.

But except for Cronin, they've about hung up their gloves for good. Hornsby, at 42, is all through. They'll have to look a long way to find another Rajah who compiled a .359 average in his 22-year career up to the end of the 1936 campaign, and even hit for .321 in a 20-game appearance last year.

Cochrane, who will direct the Tigers from the bench because of the accidental "bean ball" that ended his playing days last May, will go down as one of baseball's all-time catching greats in his 13-year career.

Frisch, who may take a turn or two at bat for the Cardinals in 1938, depending on how he feels, goes out with a .316 mark for 18 years.

Terry, who was on the Giants' active playing list a year ago, has written fims to a first-base performance that was a picture on defense for 14 years and was accompanied by a .341 lifetime batting average.

Bottomley, out of the big time after 16 years, goes into the minor leagues with a managerial assignment at Syracuse.

Ken Strutz whacked a 239 game and 601 series and topped bowlers in the Eagles league this week at the Eagles alleys. Ashauer Taverners hit a 969 game and 2,742 total to head teams.

O. K. Taxis strengthened their lead by winning two games from Miller High Life. W. Frise shot a 200 game and 594 total to head the winners while C. Anderson rolled a 216 game and 559 total to lead Miller. E. Larsen cracked a 214 game for the losers. A. Leisch rapped a 208 and W. Koester rolled a 201 series for the Taxis.

Henie's Taverners won three games from the Old Towns on a forfeit. The team rolled against handicapped scores of 827, H. Eichinger smashed a 201 game and 569 total to lead the Taverners.

Ken Strutz hit a 239 game and 601 series to lead the Ashauer Taverners to a 3-game victory over the Lutz Ice company five. M. Derfus cracked a 541 total and led the losers. B. Egert hit a 235 series for Ashauers.

Two games were won by the Adler Braus over the Mellow Brews. F. Yelg shot a 557 total to head the Braus while A. Decker smashed a 215 game and 561 series to pace the Mellow Brews. J. Jansen hit a 208 for the Braus. A. Service cracked a 207 and A. Knauss shot a 207 for the Braus.

change and the Oils won two from the Wire Works. Yelg rolled a 232 game and 583 series. R. Krahoidl a 224 game and H. Ehlers a 200 game. Clyde Demand hit a 225 game and 558 series for the Wires.

Akron, Ohio—Al Holus, Akron, knocked out Sammy Laughter, Terre Haute, Ind., (3), weights unavailable; Sammy Taormina, Akron, knocked out Orville Wiloughby; Terre Haute, Ind., former national A. A. U. welterweight champion, (6); weights unavailable.

Oakland, Calif.—Domingo Valin, 130, Hayward, Calif., and John Erjavec, 177, Duluth, Minn., drew, (10).

FRIDAY'S GAMES

Neenah at New London.
Kaukauna at West DePere.
Clintonville at Shawano.

NEENAH High school basketball team will attempt to remain tied for first place with Shawano in the Western division of the Northeastern conference Friday night when the Red Rockets battle New London on the latter's floor. The game is the feature attraction of conference play because Shawano is assured of an easy victory when it tangles with Clintonville at Shawano.

Neenah tied with the Indians last Friday night when Dan Schmidt turned in some sensational shooting to bring a 28 to 18 win over Kaukauna while Shawano was suffering an upset at the hands of Menasha at Menasha. The latter score was 31 to 29.

New London is hardly considered a setup for the Rockets. The Wolf river team has been improving weekly and is famous for staging a couple late-season upsets.

In the other conference game Kaukauna goes to West DePere with the latter favored.

KAWS IN HEAVY DRILL

Kaukauna—The last heavy drill for Coach Paul E. Little's cagers before the battle with West DePere tomorrow night at DePere was held last evening. This afternoon a light workout was on tap, with the squad leaving about 5 o'clock tomorrow for DePere.

Defensive measures were again stressed in last night's workout. The Kaw attack has functioned fairly well all season but the defense has shown weaknesses.

The Kaws have all the mechanical ability for a winning team and need but a victory or two to become a winner. The succession of hard luck losses has not damped the spirits of the squad. Although only a week ago Tuesday the Phantoms edged out the Kaws here, 30 to 28, the Littlemen stand a good chance of coming back with a win. The Kaws almost overcame a 12 to one time deficit in the second quarter to completely outplay the Phantoms.

Three five regulars whom Little has depended upon most will start against West DePere. Cliff Van-evenhoven and Bill Peterson will be at forwards, Bill Alger at center and Carl Giordana and Lee Lambie at guards. Joe Bloch will be the first substitute to see action.

GAME POSTPONED

Kimberly-The Pulaski-Kimberly high school basketball game scheduled at Kimberly high school last evening, was postponed until Feb. 16 due to the snowstorm which tied up the roads.

FRIDAY'S GAMES

Eastern Division

Reedsville at Brillion.
Hilbert at Denmark.
Seymour at Kimberly.

Western Division

Bear Creek at Wrightstown.
Winneconne at Hortonville.
Freedom at Shiocton.

SEYMOUR High school basketball team will get its last chance to figure in the Little Nine Eastern division pennant chase Friday night when it invades Kimberly. The northern team must win to stay in the running and enters the conflict with the knowledge its chances are slim.

Kimberly also will be fighting to remain in the running. The Packer-makers have lost only one game, to Denmark, and if they can get past Seymour they'll have a chance to tie the Danes when the clubs meet later this season.

Denmark is expected to retain its undefeated record because it takes on Hilbert at Denmark and should win easily from the last place team. In the other Eastern division game, Reedsville goes to Brillion with nothing more than the natural rivalry to make the clubs rise to the heights.

Hortonville at Home

Winneconne and Hortonville are slated in the feature tilt in the Western division at Hortonville. The Polar Bears are undefeated in four starts while Winneconne has dropped but one game in five starts. In the first meeting of the clubs Winneconne lost the verdict when the teams tossed free throws after two overtime periods.

Bear Creek expects to remain in second place in standings with five wins and one defeat when it plays Wrightstown at Wrightstown. The other game will have Freedom vs Shiocton with the latter hoping for a win so it can have company in the Western division cellar.

BOUTS POSTPONED

Because the condition of roads made travel hazardous, the amateur boxing card featuring West Allis and Oshkosh boxers at West Allis was postponed from last night to next week. Clifford "Chippy" Lutz, Appleton, was to have been a member of the Oshkosh squad.

The Rev. Mr. Reuter, finishing with a 538 series, paced Checker Lunch to a sweep over Huesemann Insurance, led by Risse who chalked up a 454 series.

Plamann bowled one game for 202 in reaching his high series, and his teammate, Roehm, cracked a 200 as Plamann Insurance won all three from Schabo Meats. For the losers, Gust spilled a 468 series.

C. Griem hit a 520 series to lead Ideal Photo Shop to a 2-game win over Lemke Meats, headed by E. Ballard's 474.

Dodgers Wonder What Happened to Player Contracts

None Returned and Buddy Hassett Says He Never Got One

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK—(AP)—While Larry McPhail, new general manager of the Dodgers, tears about the mid-west, working harder than a lightning rod salesman in an attempt to parlay Van Lingle Mungo into a winning ball club, things aren't going so good here.

The truth is that something appears to have happened to the Brooklyn contracts. They're missing. Club officials declare they went out almost a week ago, and that they fully expect to get one of them back any day now, signed. McPhail better had hurry home and look into the matter, because the players say somebody's kidding.

Buddy Hassett, the club's star young first baseman, who lives around here close, says he hasn't received his. It should have reached him by this time, even by pony express. If he doesn't get it by midnight of Feb. 15, incidentally, he will become a free agent, and that would be difficult to explain to the Brooklyn citizenry.

"If it was anybody concerned except the Brooklynites, I wouldn't suggest this," said one of Hassett's circle. "But maybe the Guy Mailin out those papers got himself mixed up with a trash can instead of a mail box. It happens in the funnies, doesn't it?"

Otherwise, and providing the errant contracts do show up in time, there is a distinct air of optimism in Flatbush. In the beer stubs there is new hope and a tremendous resolve to leave this Guy McPhail alone and see what he can do.

Great Bunch of Fans
"I was over there the other night," admitted Hassett, "and they feel pretty good about it. They're a great bunch of fans. They like the idea that McPhail can make trades and do whatever he wants to without first getting in touch with four or five guys, maybe one of them in California or somewhere."

There are some conflicting ideas, naturally, about what sort of play the Dodgers need to get in exchange for Mungo. Some of the boys who use to lay for Uncle Wilbert Robinson outside the park every night and give the portly manager a hot argument about his tactics think McPhail should bear down on getting a good catcher and a hitting outfielder. Others are equally positive he must get a winning pitcher in the deal.

"I honestly believe we need other replacements more than we do a pitcher," said Hassett. "We've got a couple of good ones in this Max Butcher and Luke Hamlin. They'll both win a lot of games this year with some hitting behind them. And Fred Fitzsimmons is due for a comeback, too. He broke his finger last year."

"I don't see where we need more catching, the way Babe Phelps plastered that ball last year, and I think our infield is good enough. I guess we could stand a little help in the outfield, but Tom Winsett and Heinie Manush can hit that ball."

The more Hassett thought matters over, in fact, the more he seemed to like the Dodgers just as they stand. It's infectious in Brooklyn this time of year. Maybe hasn't much to worry about, after all.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
St. John Cathedral, Green Bay, at St. John (non-conf.).
St. Mary, Menasha, at St. Mary, Oshkosh.
St. Norbert at Green Bay East (non-conf.).

Little Chute—Village basketball fans will get their money's worth Friday night when they attend the 3-game program scheduled at St. John school gymnasium.

At 7 o'clock the Legion five winner of the first round title in the County league, will play the Pankrat Fuel team of Menasha which ended the Fox River Paper company's win streak at Appleton recently. The Fox River had won 22 straight when they met the Fuel. The Legion also holds a win over the Appleton team.

At 8 o'clock St. John Catholic High school five will play St. John Cathedral, Green Bay, in a non-conference tilt. The game will be an offensive battle with St. John holding a slight edge. Two veteran members of the Chute five have been demoted and Jimmy Koehn and Woody McCabe promoted. The latter are freshmen.

With Mike Hammen doing better with each start and Roger Koehn showing an improved eye for the hoop, St. John promises to do well. D. Weyenberg is back in good graces after having been banned from the Pulaski game for failure to report for practice. Boney Versteegen and Lefty Van Asten are the other St. John regulars.

At 9 o'clock Kaukauna Knights of Columbus, showing two Little Chute players in Jack and Bob Lamers, will meet Black Creek in a County league game. The game originally was scheduled Tuesday but postponed because of the weather. The Knights won their first round game with the Creekers but the latter hopes to even matters.

ST. MARY TO OSHKOSH
Menasha—St. Mary High school cagers will open the second and most difficult half of their Fox Valley Catholic conference season Friday night at St. Mary, Oshkosh. The increase in difficulty comes from the fact that the Zephyrs will play three of the four tilts away from home, invading the home courts of St. Mary and St. Peter of Oshkosh and St. John of Little Chute. The only conference tilt in which the Zephyrs will have the advantage of the home court will be against St. Norbert college high.

Coach Bill Wheeler's scrappy St. Mary five took the Zephyrs their closest conference game this season.

FOUR IOWA ICE SKATERS
To Show at Oconomowoc
Oconomowoc—(AP)—Four skaters from Cedar Rapids, Ia., were entered today in the Great Lakes open speed skating championships which will be held here Feb. 19 and 20.

Entrants in the men's division were George Sturck, winner in past meets, and Perry McCollister, holder of the Iowa intermediate title for two successive years.

Cedar Rapids officials entered Jan Denna, winner of the Great Lakes junior title a year ago, in the women's races. Marvin Doherty filled in the intermediate class.

public experiment in controlled fishing, it gave recognition to women by setting aside a large spring tributary for their exclusive use. Women could fish on the main stream along with the men if they chose, but men were not allowed to fish the "Ladies Stream". The size limit was 8 inches, as opposed to 10 inches on the main stream. The creek limit two fish, and the approved artificial flies with barbless hook in either case. An instructor was on hand to teach casting and handling of fish.

This stream was intensively improved to provide accommodations for the maximum number of fish, and was kept stocked to capacity with trout from the minimum size up to double that length. Several times the normal capacity was held in this water by regular artificial feeding, which also kept the fish in prime condition. The water was literally alive with both brook and brown trout, and in the cool spring water, they fed more regularly and consistently than their brethren in the main stream.

This stream made many a feminine angler. Women who had never before caught a trout, and returned in disgust after a few unsuccessful attempts with their husbands on open water, became wildly enthusiastic and made their five allowed yearly trips to this stream. They could always see fish, and those with any degree of skill could always catch a goodly number. Some, who formerly thought a fish was only something to eat, became so interested in the sport of catching, and returning them that they would keep nothing but an exceptionally large one.

All women will not like to fish, but many of them need only a fair opportunity to become real enthusiasts. Future years will see

Indians' Hurler in Finals of Golf Meet
Coral Gables, Fla. —(AP)—Lloyd Brown, Cleveland Indians pitcher, had the task today of upholding the prestige of baseball players in the Miami-Biltmore lifelanders golf tournament.

Brown faced J. L. Matthews, hard-hitting Miami printer, in the 18-hole final of the event which was won in 1936 and 1937 by Paul Waner, Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder.

Matthews shot a four over par 75 that included a 7 on the first hole to upset Waner, 4 and 2. In the semi-finals while Brown eliminated Leon "Goose" Goslin, former Detroit Tigers outfielder, 6 and 5.

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATION
By L.H. KINGSTON

GREEN BAY—The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in its study of tourist travel in the United States has estimated the value of tourist trade for a number of states.

Maine ranks it second only to her entire agricultural output; California places it next in importance to her great petroleum industry; in Michigan, the center of the automobile industry, it ranks second; and in Wisconsin its value as a producer of revenue is exceeded only by that of our great dairy industry.

In those states located east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio Rivers live about 21 per cent of the entire population of the United States. In that same section we find the largest percentage of passenger automobile registration and, next to the New York area, it has the largest total income reported on income tax returns.

The concentration of these significant factors in the north central states explains the fact that this area contributes more tourists to the great annual U. S. migration than any other part of the country and, since Wisconsin is located within that area, it gives us the reason for the tremendous number of tourists that cross over borders each summer. The chief attraction is, of course, our great outdoors—our woods and waters connected by a fine highway system.

Austin Grid Star Denies He'll Enter Northwestern U.
Chicago —(AP)—Bill de Correvont, blonde bullet of the gridiron, steps into a new sphere tomorrow that may lead to ever-lasting gridiron fame.

This 19-year-old youth will be graduated from Austin High school after an amazing gridiron career that made him the outstanding prep player of the nation. His feats include nine touchdowns in one game, in ten attempts, one or more touchdowns in every game in which he has played and more than 200 points in registering 35 touchdowns.

After a couple weeks of loafing de Correvont plans to settle down to work until the time he enters the university of his choice for an intercollegiate career next fall. He has been offered no less than 25 jobs for immediate employment.

Rumor number 967 that de Correvont already has selected the university which he intends to enter was sweeping Chicago in advance of his graduation. The latest was that he was going to Northwestern, but this drew a weary denial from the touchdown maker and his principal adviser, Austin Ryan, personnel director at Austin High school.

Makes Horse Shoeing Business a Traveling Proposition in Texas
Amarillo, Tex. — When the horse shoeing business began to slump several years ago, R. J. Beeler of Amarillo packed his bag and became a wandering blacksmith. Today, he says he is the only horse-shoer left in the Texas panhandle, and reports business good from Clovis, N. M., to Pampa.

Starting in the trade when he was 11, Beeler estimated that he had shod 386,000 horses and mules in the past 25 years. From 1912 to 1925, he averaged shoeing 10 to 12 head a day.

"At one time I shod horses for $1 a head but in recent years, because of the smaller number of horses and because there are few horse-shoers left, the price is $3 now."

Beeler said the hardest thing about shoeing a horse is getting the hoof level at the right angle.

"All horses take different type shoes. When a person thinks of the many different types of gaits, such as a rack, slow gait, canter, right and left, trot, running walk, fox trot and others and the different types of horses such as the trotter, running horses, hurdlers, polo horses and the work horses, it is not hard to understand that the business of shoeing horses is really a specialist's job."

Perseverance Is Main Key to Successful Life

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—What does a girl of 14 do when she is tired of living in poverty and hasn't a chance of getting rich?
MISERABLE.

Answer:
I wonder if you have ever heard the story of the two frogs? It is a very old story, but it is so true and has so much hope and inspiration in it for all ambitious young people that it is worth repeating. It goes this way:
There were once two frogs that fell in a crock of milk. One frog, perceiving that he was sunk, gave up without making a single effort to save himself, and drowned. The other frog fought and fought and fought, and when he would sink to the bottom of the crock he would struggle up out of the depths. Finally he found himself sitting on a pat of butter at the top of the jar.

The moral of this story is that if you have the grit, the courage and the perseverance you can fight your way out of your troubles but if you just sit down and wring your hands over your misfortunes you will never rise above them. Nine-tenths of the successful men and women in this country were poor boys and girls who began life at the foot of the ladder. But they had the intelligence and the will-power that made them climb to the top.

So it is up to you to make in reason what you will of your life. You may not be able to be a glamorous movie star with a million-dollar salary though many of the fabulous ones in Hollywood came from humbler and poorer homes than yours. One has to have Lady Luck for a godmother to have that fate befall her. Nor can you be a great writer or artist unless God touched you with genius. Nor do many women ever make great fortunes and there are few poor girls who marry millionaires.

Any girl who has the average amount of brains and health, and who is willing to work and make the sacrifices that success demands, can lift herself out of poverty and into comfort if not actual riches. The trouble with most girls is that they take their longing for the comforts of life out in wishing. They are not willing to work for them. Nor will they deny themselves the present pleasure for future good. They go half-heartedly about their jobs never bothering to learn their trades or acquire the efficiency that alone commands good pay.

Their minds are on the good time they had last night or the date they have for tonight not on what they are doing. And generally even when the more intelligent and ambitious of them get to the place where they are worth real money to their employers they marry lads who are not making any more than they were and plunge themselves back into poverty. Which of course is romantic and sentimental and probably right but not good business.

My advice to you then my little 14-year-old is to try to find out what natural ability you have. Think of it in terms of what you like to do and are good at doing. Can you comb your own hair so that it looks as if you have been to a beauty shop? Are you a natural born cook? Are you clever with your needle? Are you quick at figures? Do you like to sell things? And have you a personality that makes people take to you at sight? All of them are good if you do good work in them.

So pick out your trade and fit yourself into it. Learn to do what you are undertaking to do better than your competitors, and if you keep on working and struggling and fighting you will find yourself sit-

Arab Divers and Slaves

After speaking of what he had learned about the eating habits of

"In the Persian Gulf," he said, "are three main centers for pearl fishing. The sheik of each center owns about 500 boats known as 'dhow.' Each dhow has a crew of between 30 and 50 men, and is a two-masted sailboat similar to Egyptian fishing craft. The pearl divers are trained from birth. They do not live long. Some remain below the water one and a half minutes or more. They wear clips over their noses made of bits of old kerosene tins. Taking a knife to pry the oysters loose, and a bag with an open neck, they are lowered to the sea bottom standing on a heavy stone attached to line. The usual depth of the water around the oyster beds is from 18 to 50 feet. The divers believe sharks will not touch them if they do not frighten away the small fish. Hindu merchants buy pearls from the Arabs. When a bargain is made, both parties say they have been cheated, but really both are satisfied. Each port has its own special shools for pearl fishing. If men from any port try to use a shoal not its own, a pitched battle results. Mr. Davis declared he found slave trading going on in Arabia in 1935. "Soon after I reached the seaport town of Doha," he said, "I saw about 100 slaves carrying cases of goods into warehouses. Later I visited the slave market in the town. The slaves were standing in small groups and were being pushed about by their owners. They were mainly Sudanese, Nubians and Persians, with a few half-

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

DRINKING TOAST
Dear Mrs. Post: Mother is giving a reception here at home soon, in order to announce my youngest sister's engagement. I have been told by the others in the family that since I am the oldest son and we have no father, I am supposed to give a toast or a speech or something on this occasion. Will you tell me just what it is that I am supposed to do.

Answer: A toast is very seldom drunk at a reception and since at a very large one it would be difficult to attract the attention of all the people in the room, it would make the drinking of the toast rather forced and theatrical. In other words, you would have to go around through the entire assembly giving every one a filled glass, let them wait at attention, and certainly spoil the spontaneity essential to the spirit of a toast. It is not necessary to make any definite announcement. At the reception your sister would be standing next to your mother and her fiancé next to her, and the fact that he is receiving with her and that she introduced him to every one should make the engagement apparent, or she can of course say to strangers, "My fiancé, Mr. Jones." The friends of your mother can be told as they arrive, "So glad you could come. I am announcing Mary's engagement to John Jones." On the other hand, if the tea is a very small one and every one is gathered in the dining room and you want to propose a toast, there is no reason why you should not do so. And it would, moreover, be appropriate.

Dear Mrs. Post: You wrote recently that when a son invites a girl to visit his family, his invitation should at least be seconded by his mother, or some one acting in her place as hostess. Will you tell me about my own case. I am a girl, and a boy has invited me to visit them over a weekend. His sister wrote "seconding" his invitation, but he also has a mother. Is the sister's letter sufficient? She said they were all looking forward to my coming.

Answer: Unless his sister is much younger than you, her letter telling you that you are expected by the family is sufficient. In other words, one young girl has a right to invite another young girl and therefore it would be caviling, unless there were some reason to suppose that his mother might not completely welcome you, to ask that his mother add anything to the daughter's letter.

Parents Should Deal Gently With Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

Lillian was a little girl in the fourth year in school. She was a shy, quiet child, always jumping to do what was suggested to her, always on the edge of her seat ready to leap at the word. She was in such a hurry to obey, in such anxiety to get things just right, that she usually fumbled. "Take your time, Lillian, and you'll do better," the teacher would say, and then Lillian would wipe the tears from her eyes and stumble to her seat to repeat the performance whenever called upon for a recitation. One afternoon, during reading lesson, the teacher noticed that Lillian's face was twitching. Thinking to redirect the nervous energy of the child she said, softly, "Lillian, would you like to open that door for me?" Lillian twitched, tried to stand, couldn't get control of her body and sank back in her seat, helpless.

"She has St. Vitus dance. Severe case. It's going to take a long, long time to get her over this. Better let us have her in the hospital," said the doctor.

"No, no! I want my child right with me," said her mother, and her high-pitched voice and trembling hands told their own story.

"She needs to get away from home to the quiet of the hospital room," said the doctor. "She must go."

What had happened was this: Lillian was a nervous child, quick to respond, anxious to be right. Her mother was nervous, quick-moving, and highly excitable. We found that whenever she spoke to the child she shouted her high, thin voice rising almost to a scream. No in anger, in nervous excitement. If the child had something in her hand and her mother thought she ought to put it down, she plunged toward the child, shouted to her, and snatched at the object. Never in anger. It was her way. Lillian's nerves could not stand the strain, and she broke down.

This was an exceptional child. The mother was an exceptional person. But too many of us are jumping at children. Voices are too loud, movements too sharp and too quick, and the moods that move us are too much disturbed. We overcharge the children and wear them down to the ragged edge. Then we scold because they are naughty, annoying, bad-tempered and whatnot. By and by when they fall ill we weep and send for the doctor and expect him to undo in a few minutes what we have taken years to do.

Let us go gently about our ways. Speak clearly, but gently. Don't put an overload of energy into each phrase, into each tone. Don't rush at children at any time. Move toward them calmly. Let them know you are coming. Instead of snatching things from their hands suggest gently that they set it on the table. You can know that you are over-seeing children if they look frightened when spoken to, if they duck as you go toward them; if they sleep fitfully, have tantrums; are generally unstable. Deal gently with children and it won't do any harm to do the same by older folk.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the case of Lillian. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Abused Feet Can Cause Face Flaws

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Abused feet and poor posture, face and figure flaws are so closely related and inter-related that a very vicious circle soon results. It is common knowledge that abused feet often cause wrinkles in an otherwise youthful face. It is also an open secret that poor posture may cause flaws in a figure otherwise quite perfect. Protruding abdomen, protruding buttocks, round shoulders, heavy hip spread are only a few such flaws.

Women often write me for foot exercises, for posture rules. It is fine to be even temporarily conscious of these things, but it is not enough. Of what avail is posture practice a half hour a day if one lapses right into bad habits of sitting, standing and walking for eleven or twelve hours. Of what avail are specialized foot exercises if, a few minutes after they are done and the conscience cleared, one dons tight shoes, high heels or similar foot abusing or fatiguing footwear.

Remember that hose as well as shoes should be large enough to let toes wiggle freely. Make sure that shoe are wide enough also, that the inside line of the sole does not slant any more than necessary to support the height of the heels. Low heel walking shoes with rubber soles lifts ease the jar of heel pounding and soft kid leather with flexible soles help prevent fatigue. Such shoes are recommended for average street wear, for business, for shopping. So much for the choice of footwear. Now, how do you walk and stand? Remember that toes should always point straight ahead. When standing, the abdomen should be pulled in, the buttocks under, the weight of the body on the forward part of the foot and on its outer border.

If you can keep this position when walking, and toe straight ahead in fashion then you can count on being foot loose and having your face wrinkle-free. Weight first on heels as you come down, then rising slightly on toes as you make your next step—that's the new, improved walking technique. We'll have more and more lessons on ways and means to be foot free and posture perfect. In the meantime you may have my bulletin "Posture Rules" for a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Foolish Bid Ruins Chance For Big Score

BY ELY CULBERTSON

My proudest boast is that I am "easy on partners." I lay no claim to a cherubic nature. Indeed, I have been informed on countless occasions that my disposition would grace only specified cages in the zoo. But these occasions were not concerned with bridge! It always has seemed to me abysmally stupid to bullyrag or upset a partner. Whether he is a good or a bad player, I want his best game. How can I get it if I don't keep him in unruffled spirits?

There is one thing, however, that a partner can do to upset me and cause me to lose my professional good nature. That is to bid an unbidable suit, particularly when it is quite unnecessary!

The bidding:
North East South West
1 club Pass 1 heart 2 diamonds
2 diamonds Pass 4 clubs Pass
4 hearts Pass Pass Pass

This bidding, which actually was produced by one of the so-called better teams in a recent New York duplicate, is reported only so that I can say what I think of it. Of course I am somewhat constrained by the high standards of the Fourth Estate, but the most cultured newspaper editor, I think, permit me to say that it was lousy. A cold small slam was tossed out of the window solely as a result of South's first response. If this were an isolated case of a player picking an unbidable suit just to be fancy, it would not be worth mentioning. Unfortunately, however, one meets a great many players who would make South's heart response. The theory seems to be that any one-over-one response, regardless of the biddability of the suit, is preferable to a simple raise or a no trump take-out. South had a perfectly normal two club response and, had he made it, it would have been a simple matter for North to have reached the correct contract of six clubs. Once informed that clubs would be the best final contract, North would have had no fear in using the four-five no trump convention to locate a possible ace in South's hand. A five spade answer from South would have made matters automatic.

On the actual heart response North was completely tied up. Over West's two diamonds he made the strongest response he could afford. But then, when South bid four clubs, North could not risk the four-five no trump convention. Remember, he was playing duplicate, not rubber bridge! The hand might well make the same number of tricks in hearts as in clubs and, even if five clubs could be made to only four hearts, the latter would still return a better match point score. Thus all North could do, having cue bid the diamond suit, was to bid for hearts, and now South was equally tied up. With his miserable holding he was afraid of five clubs. North, never had rebid the suit and might actually be short. Having thrown a monkey wrench in the machinery in the form of his original one heart response, South now had to pass and hope for the best. He succeeded in making four hearts, but this was not very good, compared with the six clubs that were a laydown.

Father Head Tells About Catholic Church Charities

100 Attend First Lecture Of Series Sponsored by Convert League

Menasha—Declaring that the Catholic church is always interested in human conduct, human needs and human relationship, indicative of her interest in education, care of the sick, sanatoriums, institutions and family and child welfare, the Rev. Henry C. Head, director of Catholic charities in the Green Bay diocese, told more than 100 persons assembled in the Knights of Columbus hall last night about the work of the Apostolate in the diocese. Father Head's lecture was the first in a series of lectures which the convert league of the Twin City Catholic Daughters of America is sponsoring this season.

The next lecture, Mrs. S. E. Crockett, chairman of the league, announced, would be held Feb. 23 at which time Judge Joseph Martin of the Wisconsin Supreme court, would be guest speaker as the court observed the celebration of the anniversary of the writing of the constitution. The third lecture will be on the preservation of the art and culture of the midwest and a speaker from Dubuque, Ia., is to be secured.

Children Are Helped
Father Head stated that in the Green Bay diocese which comprises 16 counties, there are 9 hospitals, major ones in their respective communities, and last year, those hospitals gave $173,000 of free care. He discussed principally, the child welfare activity in the diocese, pointing out that last year, 1,101 dependent, neglected and delinquent children were taken care of in welfare programs. About 226 of this number were cared for in their own homes, while 874 were cared for in homes of relatives and 94 were cared for in foster homes.

"The latest and best way to care for children is in the boarding or foster home," declared Father Head, "but," he added, "institutional care has its place too and institutional care is far superior to a less than average home that might be a foster or boarding home. We are developing the plan of boarding homes for children in the diocese more and more and in Winnebago county we have been able to work out a splendid program along this line with the aid of Judge Henry Hughes, who knows child welfare."

In discussing St. Joseph's boarding school in Green Bay as an institutional home, Father Head told of its equipment and the plan to make the institution as nearly like a normal home as possible. He discussed the acceptance of an individual as "the acceptance of an individual as a problem and endeavoring to readjust in the best possible way whatever maladjustment may exist." Father Head illustrated his discussion with case histories and many interesting experiences in his work.

"Social work today," he said, "does not replace Christian charity but takes it and elevates it."

In discussing the adoptive work of the Apostolate Father Head declared that he believed, from his experience as director of welfare work, that "the best bet in adoptive program was the offspring of unmarried mothers" but he continued his discussion by explaining the high standards and the exhaustive investigations made before a child is given to a family in adoption. Out of the 110 unmarried mothers under the care of the diocese last year, only 26 children were placed for adoption.

Only girls from the fifth grade through high school age are taken in the Good Shepherd's home, a home for delinquents, Father Head said as he outlined the program of that agency.

Father Head urged cooperation through understanding of the program for the assistance of which he made this year on each parish to carry on the work of the Apostolate. About $11,000 has been needed for the budget, this year an additional $5,000 is to be secured.

Prior to the lecture, Mrs. O. K. Sensenbrenner sang three selections. "Thanks Be to God," "Clouds" and "At Parung." Mrs. J. E. Lundquist accompanied her at the piano.

The Rev. Joseph Gluckstein, newly appointed pastor of St. Margaret Mary parish in Neenah, was introduced by Mrs. Crockett and he spoke briefly.

A social hour at which luncheon was served followed the lecture.

St. Margaret Mary Team To Meet Appleton Five

Work Progresses in Woodworking Unit Of New High School

Menasha—Work in the new Menasha high school building is being carried on chiefly in the gymnasium and in the addition called unit "B" where the woodworking department will be housed after the building is completed. Several weeks of work remain in unit "B" where workmen are now laying the floors. The ceiling must also be installed in that building.

The floor of the auditorium has been laid and painters are doing some work on the decorations. The auditorium is practically ready for the installation of seats, windows, drapes and stage equipment.

Actual practice in machine shop classes is being held up until a master control panel is secured. All of the machines have been turned to direct power drive and will be ready for operation.

The basketball court is practically complete in the gymnasium and needs only the installation of baskets and backboards before the team can start practice. Locker rooms and showers must be completed in the basement of the gymnasium.

Football Most Expensive Neenah High School Sport

Neenah—Because of expensive equipment necessary to protect the players, football is the most expensive sport maintained at Neenah High school, according to statistics on the 1937 grid season released today by Principal John H. Holzman.

Mr. Holzman qualified the figures with, "To offset the expense item, it may be said that more boys are given an opportunity to take part in the game than in any other sport, the nature of the activity enabling more youngsters to play on varsity and second and third teams." He stated that last season about 70 high school boys were out for football, remaining out for the entire season.

During the recent season, Neenah High school gate receipts for four games and one-half of the receipts for a fifth game totaled $1,641.34, while the expenses for the season amounted to $1,766.19.

For several years the board of education has appropriated a sum of money to pay for some of the expense to continue the sport, Holzman explained.

The receipts were taken in during the Shawano, Clintonville, Messmer, Menasha and one half for the St. Mary games.

Total disbursements for the season are as follows: Transportation, $39; officials for four games $132.50; equipment, supplies and repairs, $853.62; guarantees for the Messmer $65, and for the Menasha game, $514.91; guards on field for four games, $68; postage, $3; telephone, $130; letter awards, $22; laundry, $15.36; trip to Madison for the F. W. club, $11.50; radio service for Menasha game, $20.

Expect Entire Menasha Squad to See Action Friday Night

Menasha—Menasha High school cagers will tune up for the second half of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference season Friday night with a game against the Kiel High school five of the Eastern Wisconsin conference. The game will be called at 8 o'clock at Butte des Morts gymnasium.

The contest should prove a good trial horse for the entire Bluejay squad as the Kiel team is in sixth place in its own conference. Coach N. A. Calder probably will be able to use his entire squad in attempts to remove rough spots and form a smooth-working combination.

Likely starters for the Bluejays will be Block and Landskron at forwards, Heiss and DuCharme at guards and either Osiewalski or Zelinski at center. Both of the last two players probably will get into the action. The first line of substitutes for the Bluejays probably will be Resch at a guard post and Schneider at a forward.

For Kiel the likely starters will be Buswell and Stier at forwards, Hein at center, Anderson and Bruckner at guards, Nelson at a forward, Martin at center and Goodrich at guard are the first string substitutes for Kiel.

The Bluejays have one other non-conference game left. Arrangements for the Oshkosh high school game at Oshkosh will be made later in the season if possible. The game originally was scheduled for last Tuesday but was postponed because of the weather.

On Feb. 4, the Bluejays return to conference games going to Clintonville for what should be the fifth victory in seven starts for the Bluejays.

secretary-treasurer, at a meeting Wednesday night at the Valley Inn.

The state record of the number of teams competing in a tournament is 1,350, according to Adolph Hennig, director of the association and general chairman of the 1938 tournament. The Twin Cities have raised their quota of teams from 300 to 350, and it is likely that more than 1,000 teams from other cities in the state will take part.

Jonen told committee members that the present record is considered exceptionally high. Plans for the tournament were furthered at the meeting. Schedules were arranged and entries indicated. The committees will meet with Jonen every week.

Evelyn Scholl, city and school nurse, this afternoon to determine the feasibility of the club taking over the Neenah Fresh Air camp. The club is considering the project, and Babcock will report his investigation at the Tuesday noon meeting of the club at the Valley Inn.

The club is currently furthering plans to sponsor a spring opening, auction and farmers' institute the first week in April, the money raised to be used for welfare purposes. Financially sponsoring the Fresh Air camp is one of the welfare projects under consideration.

Neenah Camera Enthusiasts are Organizing 'Photo Fanatics' Club

Neenah—A new organization, the name of which has been applied, is being formed in Neenah—the Photo Fanatics club. The implied requisite to become a member of the club is that a candidate be a "fanatical" camera enthusiast, while the specific requirement for entrance into the unusual organization is that no serious minded photographers, such as newspaper photographers, will even be given consideration for candidacy.

The purpose of the club, according to reports today, is to give members an opportunity to exchange ideas as well as pictures, and all members must vouch that they will become a menace to their friends and acquaintances, if need be, in order to secure pictures and ideas pertinent to the club's specific requirement.

The club will be limited in membership, and it is proposed to restrict the membership to 12 persons in Neenah who qualify.

Monthly Sessions
Present organizers of the "quaint" society, are George Pyott and Knox Kimberly, two noted Neenah camera enthusiasts. Others who have acquired the "stigma" of being candid camera fans and have been mentioned as likely candidates are Al Poellinger, Dr. H. F. Beglinger and Dr. F. G. Jensen.

Preliminary plans exclude monthly meetings, one member of the club to act as host for the meetings, during which results during the month will be calculated and compared.

There are several other Neenah residents who would qualify for membership, it was said by the organizers, but before a membership campaign is started definite plans will have to be formulated. At the initial meeting of the society, a constitution to which all members will sign their names will be formulated, according to the preliminary plan.

Officers of the club will be named at the organization meeting, a date set for the regular meetings, and the appointment session chairman.

Club Hears Talk On Preparation, History of Salt

Heaviest Demand Is From Manufacturing Industries, Wheeler Says

Kaukauna—The history, methods of preparation and uses of salt was the topic of Frank G. Wheeler, of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton, speaking yesterday noon before the Kaukauna Rotary club at the Kaukauna hotel.

"We may go back before the human race," Wheeler said, "and we find that all animals needed salt. None could exist for a long time without it. It was commonly found when sea water had washed up, left a pool, and then receded. The sun then evaporated the water, leaving the salt."

The importance of salt shows itself in our language, Wheeler continued. The word salary comes from salt, which at one time was so valuable it was used as a medium of exchange.

Detroit On Salt Bed

The largest deposits of salt in the United States are found in eastern states—New York, Ohio and Michigan. Large deposits are also found in Louisiana and Kansas. "The whole city of Detroit is built on a salt bed," he stated, "extending under the city 14 miles south and 50 miles north. One company at Michigan, operating a single deposit of 110 acres, could remove 700 tons a day for 250 years before exhausting but one layer of the salt."

The main method of getting salt in New York is by mining, with the state having the largest mines in the world. One mine has a circumference of 15 miles. Most of this salt is used by eastern manufacturers. In Kansas and other states salt is mined from wells. A system of pipes enables water to be piped down, dissolve the salt, and bring it to the surface. This brine, containing about 25 per cent salt, is then evaporated and the salt reclaimed.

Gypsum Causes Caking

"Salt all over the world has about the same composition," Wheeler continued. "A small amount of gypsum is present in all quantities, and this is what will cause salt to cake. It may cake so hard it cannot be broken with a pick. A hard shock will cause caked salt to shatter—a stick of dynamite in a carload will break down the salt into grains."

So-called iodized salt has about a pound of iodine to three tons of salt, Wheeler said, which probably does little good to those afflicted with thyroid troubles. It enough were added to really make a difference, harm instead of good might result, he added.

"The main uses of salt are in manufacturing industries—table use is small. Some is used in the meat and fish packing lines, but the real outlet is as a raw material for industry. Salt is practically the only raw material soluble in water, and as such is of great use. It is used in the dye industry, in the making of soda ash, from which in turn bicarbonate of soda, caustic soda and soap are made. It is used for the purification of oils and for making rayon. Chlorine can be manufactured by running an electric current through salt brine. Chlorine is used to purify water, 10 pounds being sufficient to purify three million gallons. Hydrogen is also secured from this electrical process, which is used in the hydrogenation of oils, taking out their rancidity and making them suitable for cooking and frying."

GOOD TASTING YEAST TABLET
BRINGS 3 VALUABLE VITAMINS IN INEXPENSIVE FORM

Each vitamin has its place in promoting good health. Vitamin A is plentiful in foods. C is present in fruits and vegetables. B vitamins are lacking in many refined foods. Too little Vitamin D impairs the structure of teeth and bones, decreases intestinal muscle-tone and adds the resistance to infection. Yeast is the richest known source of Vitamin B. An amount equal to 2 teaspoonsful of ordinary cod liver oil in each tablet. Many doctors recognize Ray-D Tablets as a most economical source of these 3 vitamins... a good supplement to cod liver oil. Ask for Ray-D Tablets at your drug store. Buy by name. Attending druggists everywhere. (Ad.)

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

BY ALAN LEMAY

SYNOPSIS: A widespread revolt of savage Dyak tribes makes it impossible for my uncle, James Clyde, to run any guns to his client, the besieged rajah. Our trading vessel, the Lingang, is strongly fortified, but the Forrester's Avon is defenseless. Tropical Balingong Bay is a strange place to find a young English girl, and my uncle tries to persuade Christine, and her brother Robert, to leave. Cool and serene, Christine insists on remaining for a definite purpose.

Chapter Four
James Clyde, Gun-runner
CHRISTINE FORRESTER and her brother are here for exactly the same reason we are," my uncle said. "They're trying to take advantage of the revolt. Evidently they've cooked up some hare-brained scheme for getting rich. That's the trouble nowadays. Everybody thinks he has to get rich. Clean up quick and retire. That's all they think about. Nobody expects to just live along and work any more. Every last rat-tiebrain and his brother is out after some big killing."

"Well," I pointed out, "so are you, sir."

"That's an entirely different matter!" my uncle growled at me. "Will you keep to the point?"

It was not a different matter. That my uncle was a gun-runner was more easily explained than you might think. After the days of '49 many a youngster, arriving on the Pacific coast of America too late for California's great golden boom, followed on into the sunset with the ships of the China trade, hunting new and stranger bonanzas in place of those that had been missed. James Clyde was one of these. And there was opportunity in Asiatic waters for that type of man. I can think of no time nor place in which the wheel of fortune turned more swiftly, or where the acceptance of constant danger promised such rich rewards. A man in possession of a ship could search for a new avenue of trade with the same kind of bright hope a broken-down beach-comber sifts the rubbish of native trash piles for a priceless pearl. Either one might meet incredible wealth over night. Yet that sort of thing was the least of it. The very map itself was uncertain then, remade from month to month and from week to week. In those vast, scarcely-charted seas European nations claimed vast spheres of influence—especially the British, the Dutch, and the Spanish—without knowing what such spheres contained. The great flags wandered half lost among countless little-known islands. Whole groups and chains of these islands were under the dominion of native rajahs, both technically and in fact. Maps showed non-existent European strongholds where not even a trader dared attempt a landing, and a good half of the islands were not on the map at all.

Where European flags meant little, the nearest thing to trade security—or even to the bare possibility of trade—was the friendship of individual rajahs. This was gained by first beating them off when they came at you as pirates, and then by helping the rajahs in their own private wars by selling them arms. Once the friendship of a rajah was gained, it naturally was to the advantage of the trader to make that rajah as strong as possible—by means of more arms.

An Advantageous Deal
Hence the gun-runner. Technical-ly he was without legal standing; he had no place in international law. But in seas in which the lonely traders fought their own battles, without benefit of warships, the gun-runner was as sound a man as a country blacksmith; as necessary as wheat. The traders were forever appealing to British, Dutch or Spanish squadrons, but few warships ever came, and those that came left with their task undone. Outlaw though he might be called, the gun-runner commanded those hot shallow seas.

James Clyde was a good one. He knew such ropes as were known

Potato Inspection in County Near Completion

Waupaca — The inspection of potatoes under the federal division program has been practically completed for Waupaca county growers whose potatoes are ready.

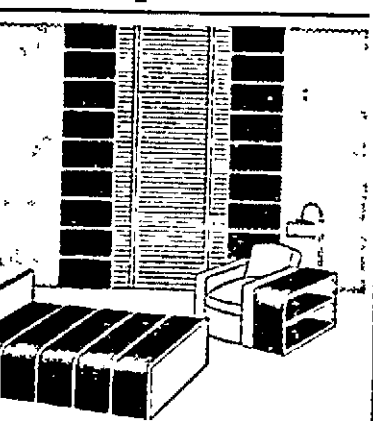

To date, out of the 488 growers who have received "diversion authorization," 136 have been inspected, totaling 14,597 bushels of potatoes. It was thought, judging from the urgent requests received by the county agent's office, that more growers who made application for "diversion authorization" were ready for inspection.

It is necessary for persons who divert potatoes to livestock feed to take out all potatoes that they wish to sell, to use for family needs, and to use for feed because all that are left are dyed with a harmless dye.

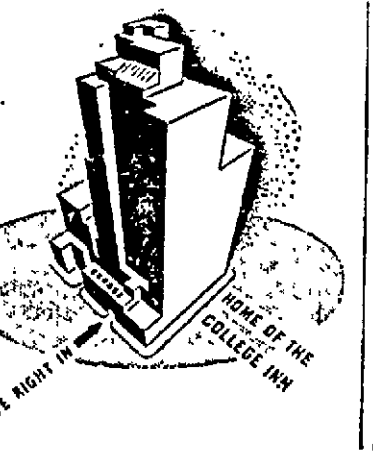

Dyed potatoes are not to be offered for sale, used for human food or for seed. Arrangements can be made to sell dyed potatoes for livestock feed at the time the potatoes are inspected by the federal government representative. Only growers can receive the benefit payment.

It is still possible for growers who have not as yet made application to divert potatoes grading U. S. No. 2 or better to livestock feed to put in their request. These applications can be made at the county agent's office or the required form will be mailed to anyone upon their request.

Hollywood—Unreal parade:

Gone from this year's new contracts — and not missed — is the marriage clause... Studios decided finally, as so many of their movie titles implied, that they couldn't beat love... A girl can get married now before she's 21 and the studio will give blessings — as it did to Anne Shirley, who technically violated her contract in marrying John Payne, and she only 19 now... Be-

Charlie Chaplin sides all which the studios have learned it doesn't make any difference in a player's popularity when she marries... Practical jokes come high in Hollywood... Harry Ritz claims the laugh was on him — $10,000 worth — in this one: He came home, found his wife wearing a new square-cut diamond... "I got it at that nice jewelry store you showed me on the boulevard," she said. "I had it charged to you."

But next evening she wasn't wearing it... "That's one on you," Mrs. Harry laughed. "I had the ring only for a day — as a rib. I didn't really buy it." But Harry had sent the jeweler his check — that morning!

Joan May Change heard a story the other day which may explain why Charlie Chaplin takes his time... Chaplin arrives at the studio, even when he's working, at his own convenience... Ten o'clock, 11 o'clock, 12 o'clock, it's all one with him... One day, when Charlie was in production, he showed up in about 10:30, and unadvisedly, at the same moment, one of his employees was looking at his watch... Chaplin boiled, turned on the offender.

Joan Blondell "Don't pull a switch on me," he fumed. "Mack Sennett told me to do that. I won't have anybody pulling a watch on me — in my own studio!"

The dopesters look for Joan Crawford to leave Metro when her contract is up, with Goldwyn as most likely bidder... And for Joan Blondell to skip Warner's after one more picture — to free-

Cary Grant (since "The Awful Truth") is getting $100,000 a picture... Which is pretty good for a kid named Archie Leach who used to be an acrobat!

Forced Pleasure Item A scene in "Gypsy" ran into trouble the other day... Jane Withers had to release a carrier pigeon through a window, and was merely dropping it... After several attempts it came out that Jane was afraid throwing it — as is customary — would hurt the bird. The other trouble was Borrah Minnott, who was trained to wiggle his forehead while harmonica-playing. Borrah unconsciously wiggled it with every line of dialogue. Stern self-discipline conquered the obstacle.

Trade-paper headline proclaims: "Para. Plans to Sue Critic for Knock on Wells Fargo."... Help! Help! Are things coming to this? Next thing we know (if that's true) they'll have armed guards outside the theatres, ready to smack down any patron who dares to frown as he leaves a picture show... Critics first, then picture show. We'll like pictures — or else!

Youngsters' Horseplay Turns Post Office Pens Into Unwieldy Shapes
Those "darn post office pens" that people castigate for their scratchiness aren't mangled from disuse by adults or old age, Postmaster Stephen Balliet declared yesterday, but by "kids" who like to play gangster and stick each other with "em."

Postmaster Balliet dumped a pile of bent, broken, and twisted pen points on his desk.

"Those were brand new a few days ago," he said. "Then last Sunday some kids got in here and went to work on them. That is the usual explanation for post office pens not working right. We've taken a lot of them away from youngsters who were playing in the lobby."

The postmaster is launching a drive for better pen points in the post office.
